Chamber of Commerce Requests Report On Delays in Starting Work Upon Bridge

Baby Market Suspect

Mrs. Jack Shinder of Brooklyn, N. Y., steps out of a police car at Malton near Toronto, Canada. She and her husband were arrested as they were about to board a plane for New York with a four-day-old baby. They are charged with obtaining a birth certificate by fraud as Canada digs into the facts of a wide-spread baby-smuggling market. (NEA Telephoto).

President Names Three to Offices

Allen, Merchant, Bohlen Are Nominated for Vital Posts

Augusta, Ga., Feb. 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower today nominated George V. Allen to be ambassador to India and neighboring Nepal, and Livingston T. Merchant to be assistant secretary of state in charge of European affairs.

He also formally submitted to the Senate the nomination of Charles Bohlen as ambassador to Russia. Selection of Bohlen for the post was announced by the White House last week. He has been serving as State Department counselor and is an expert on Soviet affairs.

All three men—Allen, Merchant and Bohlen—are career diplomats. Allen has been ambassador to Yugoslavia since 1949 and Merchant is deputy U. S. special representative in Europe, under William H. Draper.

Eisenhower's announcement of the appointments came during the first full day of a brief vacation the President is spending here at the Augusta National Golf Club. He also nominated three men for U. S. district attorney posts—his first appointments in these fields. They included J. Edward Lumbard Jr. of New York city, to be district attorney for the southern district of New York state.

Prior to entering the diplomatic service in 1942 Merchant, 49, was in the investment banking business in New York, where he was born.

Lumbard served as assistant U. S. district attorney for the southern district of New York from 1925 to 1927. In 1931 he was chief of the criminal division in that district. He currently is engaged in private law practice.

Two Doomed Killers Receive New Hope

Albany, Feb. 26 (AP) — Two doomed New York city killers had new hope today to avoid Sing Sing's electric chair—one through appeal to the U. S. Supreme court, the other through possible clemency from Gov. Dewey.

The Court of Appeals yesterday cleared the way for William Vander Wyde, 39-year-old Manhattan longshoreman, to appeal his first degree murder conviction to the nation's highest tribunal, but turned down a similar move in behalf of Al Keshner, 43-year-old Brooklyn garmentmaker.

But simultaneously, at a clemency hearing before the governor one block away, a Manhattan prsecutor recommended executive clemency for Keshner but not for Vander Wyde.

Two Brooklynites Say They Paid Nothing but Hospital Bill, $63.25

Toronto, Feb. 27 (AP)—Officials investigating an alleged international baby black market disagreed today about its very existence as a childless Brooklyn couple claimed they paid nothing but a $63.25 hospital bill for the infant they tried to take home with them.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shinder, were arrested Wednesday as they prepared to board a New York-bound plane with a five-day old baby not their own. They were charged with obtaining a birth certificate by fraud.

Police officials said then that with the arrests they had uncovered an illegal baby farm that had shipped at least 20 infants into the United States for adoption in the last three months and possibly as many as 100 in the last year. They added that the babies were sold for $250 each, male or female, and sometimes resold in New York for as high as $2,000.

Refuse to Be Quoted

Most authorities who maintained that such a farm existed refused to be quoted by name but Jacob Kershner of the United States Immigration Service declared:

"There is definitely a ring operating for the purpose of buying and selling babies."

Leader Had Agreement With McInerney, Is Greenberg Report

New York, Feb. 27 (AP)—A federal attorney today quoted Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan of New York city as saying he had an agreement with James McInerney, assistant attorney general, whereby New York city police would investigate their own civil rights cases.

Daniel H. Greenberg, an assistant United States attorney, testified before a House Judiciary Subcommittee.

The committee is investigating reports the police and the Justice Department had an agreement exempting the police from FBI probes of alleged brutality in violation of civil rights.

Monaghan has repeatedly said the police had no such agreement with the Justice Department.

Tells of Statement

Greenberg said Monaghan told him of such an agreement at a meeting in the commissioner's office last Nov. 12.

He quoted Monaghan as telling him he "did not want the FBI to investigate New York city police" and that he "would not make police officers available" for FBI interrogation.

Greenberg said the meeting was attended by Chief Police Inspector Conrad H. Rothengast and another police officer whom he believes was First Deputy Police Commissioner Frank Fristensky, Jr.

Greenberg testified that the meeting was called at his request.

On the eve of the two-day open hearing, a Federal Grand Jury reported it had not found sufficient evidence to indict an accused patrolman on charges of violation of the Civil Rights Law.

The case of the patrolman—involving the alleged beating of two Negroes handcuffed together in a police station—is a major item in the flurry of charges here and in Washington which have brought on the congressional investigation.

To Be Investigated

An alleged agreement last year between the New York Police Department and the U. S. Department of Justice, under which police here reportedly were exempted from normal FBI investigation in civil rights cases, also is to be investigated.

Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan, who denies such an agreement ever existed, will be among the witnesses before the House Judiciary Subcommittee headed by Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.).

Among other police officials listed as witnesses are First Deputy Commissioner Frank Fristensky and Chief Inspector Conrad H. Rothengast. They are said to have discussed the alleged civil rights agreement last July at a meeting with U. S. Attorney Myles J. Lane of New York and James McInerney, who then was assistant at-

Slept With Dead Wife Two Nights, Man Says

Berlin, Conn., Feb. 27 (AP)—Paul Morin of the Holmes brickyard told Berlin and New Britain police today he slept with his wife in the same bed for two night before he realized she was dead.

Mrs. Morin, 59, who police said was released from Hartford county jail Tuesday, collapsed by the side of her bed Wednesday morning. Believing she was sick, Morin, police reported, placed her in bed and slept with her that night and last night.

When Mrs. Morin did not change her position in two days, Morin said he tried to awaken her. When she did not respond, he called New Britain police.

Medical Examiner Dr. John J. Tokarczyk said the woman apparently died of natural causes sometime Wednesday.

Navy Plane Crashes In Ocean, 10 Saved By Coast Guard

No Injuries Are Reported Among Survivors by Authorities; Radar Aids Rescue

Washington, Feb. 27 (AP) — A crippled navy patrol plane crash landed in the mid-Atlantic this morning but all 10 men aboard were picked up by the Coast Guard Cutter Coos Bay.

The navy said that four of the men were rescued from the water and six from a raft carried by the plane. The navy reported no injuries among the survivors.

The patrol plane, which was about half way between Bermuda and the Azores Islands, landed in a sea that had been whipped by 30-mile an hour winds.

The Coast Guard cutter had been sent to the area after the plane, a P2-B reported it was having engine trouble. A patrol plane also was ordered to stand by over the scene.

Radar Tracks Progress

During the last hour of the crippled plane's flight, its progress was tracked on the radar of the Coos Bay and by other vessels in the Atlantic.

The patrol bomber sent to the scene circled around to give added guidance to the damaged craft in its effort to put down as near as possible to the Coast Guard cutter. The cutter's crew was at crash stations, waiting to carry out the rescue.

The navy said that the aircraft had left Bermuda and was on its way to the Azores when one engine began to fail and then the pilot radioed that he would attempt to turn back. At 9:05 a. m., EST, the damaged aircraft reported its position at 35 degrees north and 48 degrees west.

'Promising New Line' Is Used Extensively on Long Island for Buildings

A spokesman for the Brick Manufacturers Association of New York today indicated the possibility of the use of shale in the manufacture of a new type large brick, which is expected to be made in the area yards this year.

The new building product, known as the Hudson River Adaptation of SCR brick, has been used considerably in mass building on Long Island, and is considered a "promising new line" in the industry.

Use of shale in the manufacture of the new brick is considered still in the experimental stage, but it was learned today, that it has been used by the Jova Brick Works in the Newburgh area.

New Interest Shown

A new interest in Ulster county shale deposits has also been indicated, and it is believed that this interest stems from the possibility of a later widespread use of shale in the manufacture of brick.

The new type brick is eight inches long, five and a half inches wide and two and five-eights inches thick. It has an indenture in one side used as a jamb slot for windows and doors, and a patented furring clip for attaching inside furring. Wall board is attached to furring strips. It makes a sturdy, fire-resistent wall.

Development of the brick was brought out by the Structural Trades Products Research Foundation. It has been used in the building of many story-and-a-half homes on Long Island.

Recent inquiries in the township of Woodstock and vicinity, as to shale deposits there, have been reported, and some sources said offers had been made to purchase lands containing large shale deposits.

Red Training Area Pounded by Planes

Seoul, Feb. 27 (AP)—Swift U. S. Thunderjet fighter-bombers today pounded a huge Communist training center on the Manchurian border and left it in flaming ruins, the U. S. Fifth Air Force reported.

Pilots said they destroyed 10 buildings and left the sprawling installation smothered in flames. Screening Sabre jets encountered no Communist MIG fighters.

In frontline sweeps, marine and air force fighter-bomber pilots reported destruction of 26 buildings, three personnel shelters, two sections of a rail bridge and other Red installations.

On the ground, allied infantrymen drove off seven Communist attacks and killed more than 60 Communists—including 35 members of a balky Chinese patrol.

40 Reds Caught

An allied unit caught 40 snooping but reluctant Reds in an ambush east of the hook on the western front. A Chinese officer roughed up two squad leaders who hesitated to advance into No-Man's land. Allied rifle fire cut down all but five of the Reds.

In the air, 11 U. S. B-29 Superforts last night blasted a sprawling Communist supply center on the North Korean east coast south of rubbled Wonsan. Crewmen reported the area rocked with mushrooming explosions.

"I saw four orange-yellow ground bursts go up all at once," said Gunner Sal J. Tedde, Port Washington, N. Y. "They looked like a huge, multi-colored mushroom. Then, just behind them, another one went off that was bluish in color.

Adult Driving Class Is to Be Organized

A new driver training class for adults will be formed Monday, March 2, at 9:30 a. m., in Room V-108 of the new Vocational Building.

The class will meet on Mondays from 3:30 to 5:30 for related instruction and then in groups of four on one other day of the week for behind-the-wheel instruction.

Only 16 persons can be admitted for this class.

Joneses Say Man Pushed Ladder; Fall 30, 25 Feet

Medical Examiner Hits at Suffocation

Babies Don't Die That Way, He Says; Cites Effect Upon Parents

Chicago, Feb. 27 (AP)—A New York medical examiner said flatly today that babies don't suffocate from pillows, bedcovers or bedclothing.

Dr. Jacob Werne said he has performed or witnessed autopsies on several thousand babies in the last 22 years without finding a single case of suffocation from those means caused by faulty posture of the baby.

Some doctors and pathologists, he contended, conclude that a baby has died from suffocation when no other cause of death is apparent.

"There is absolutely no justification for this as it can only lead to a feeling of guilt on the part of the parents," he said.

Dr. Werne said some babies have "an unusual susceptibility to infection" and that examinations by skilled pathologists show that most of the supposed suffocation deaths result from this cause.

Says It Is Unlikely

He said it is "very unlikely and very unusual" for a healthy baby to suffocate on regurgitated food or fluid sucked into the lungs.

Police Action May Come Against City Property Owner; Escape Serious Hurts

Richard and Frank Jones of the Jones Radio and Television Service, Hinsdale avenue, escaped serious injury yesterday when a ladder on which they had been working on Bruyn avenue was reportedly pushed over and threw them to the ground.

Police headquarters was notified at 5:20 p. m., of the incident, and Officers Peter Camp and William Hanley, who investigated, said Richard Jones claimed that a man, who complained that the ladder was on his property, "turned the ladder over."

Thrown 30 Feet

The police report said that Jones was thrown about 30 feet with some aerial equipment. He was on his way down the ladder at the time, they said.

Mrs. M. S. Jones, mother of the two, said today, however, that Frank Jones was near the bottom of the ladder and Richard was near the top at the time. It was estimated that Richard fell about 25 feet and suffered a thumb laceration. Frank, she said was hit under an arm with a pipe belonging to the aerial equipment.

No immediate action was taken against the man, who, the two say, was responsible for the mishap, but some later action was indicated.

Natural Gas Rates Boost Filed by Central Hudson

Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation announced today that it has filed with the Public Service Commission increased natural gas rates that will go into effect May 26, if approved. The proposed increase would average about 5 per cent to all of the utility company's natural gas customers.

Ernest R. Acker, president of Central Hudson, pointed out that the company is faced with, and is already paying, substantially higher rates for natural gas than when rates to its customers were reduced in the spring of 1950. On November 1, 1952 the rate charged Central Hudson by its natural gas supplier, the Columbia Gas System, was increased 20 per cent.

This increase was made necessary by higher wellhead prices of natural gas in the southwest and by the higher costs of transporting this gas to the North Atlantic seaboard. The 20 per cent increase results in an added cost of $163,000 annually which is more than Central Hudson can absorb, Mr. Acker explained.

"The added cost of our natural gas supply will have to be passed on to the company's customers if the company is to remain in a sound financial position to provide the type of service that its customers are entitled to receive," he added.

Two other factors were cited by Mr. Acker in the company's decision to file for increased gas rates. "The general price level has increased materially since 1950. The federal income tax rate has increased from 38 per cent in the spring of 1950 to 52 per cent now," he declared. "In addition, the Public Service Commission has adopted new safety rules for operation of gas distribution systems which will ultimately involve additional cost to the company of about $40,000 annually," Mr. Acker explained.

Here is how the present gas rates would be changed to establish the proposed new rate: (1) An increase in the initial and minimum charge for 200 cubic feet of gas per month from 95 cents to $1, and (2) An increase of 1 cent per 100 cubic feet in the price of gas included in each subsequent unit.

U. S. Living Costs Drop Slightly in Month, Government Reports; New Index Is Used

Washington, Feb. 27 (AP)—The government reported today that living costs dropped two-tenths of one per cent between mid-December and mid-January.

The decline, mainly due to lower retail prices for food and clothing, was reflected in a new consumer price index put out for the first time today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The new index is designed to reflect consumer price changes more accurately than did the one used previously. It prices more items, covers more cities and brings the calculations up to date on new consumer buying habits.

The new index for mid-January is 113.9. Government living cost figures always are a month or so late because of time required to compile them.

The figure means that in mid-January living costs were 13.9 per cent above the average for the 1947-49 period, which is used as the index base. It is 0.7 per cent above a year ago.

Many labor unions had contracts under which wage rates were to be adjusted upward or downward according to changes in the old index.

A spokesman for General Motors Corp. said the new living cost figures indicated a one cent-per-hour decrease in wages for about a half million of its employes.

He said, however, that because of government delay in publishing an "old series" index no adjustment in wage rates would be made for the time being.

The "old series" index was once abandoned by the government, but was recently revived on orders of President Eisenhower to accommodate employers and unions having "escalator" clauses geared to the "old series" index.

The "old index" standing in mid-January is to be announced later but not for several weeks.

Prospects are that the "old series" figure for mid-January will not become available until about April 1. Apparently, the auto industry intends to postpone any wage adjustment, due March 1, until either the "old series" index becomes available, or auto firms and the CIO Auto Workers Union agree on a method for applying the new index. Negotiations are under way.

The biggest price drop between mid-December and mid-January came in the meat category, dropping nearly two per cent.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said a modest price decrease was general in most of the 46 cities at which prices were obtained for the new index.

Food declined 0.6 per cent during the month. This put it 1.7 per cent below a year ago but 12.5 per cent above the June, 1950, pre-Korean war period. Prices were lower for poultry, fish and dairy products as well as meat. Fresh vegetables were up a bit.

Clothing costs continued to decline and dropped one-half of one per cent between December and January.

The January decline was described as largely seasonal. It left living costs only 0.3 per cent under the all-time high record last November.

The new index is patterned after the Bureau's prior one, but

Letter Asks Loughran Act on Span

Committee Declares It Has Responsibility to Public, Since Progress Cited Earlier

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce today released for publication a letter from its special bridge committee to James F. Loughran, chairman of the New York State Bridge Authority asking for a report on delays in starting work on the proposed bridge over the Hudson north of the city.

One question in the letter asks: "Would you please let us know why the bridge approach plans have not been completed and submitted to the State Superintendent of Public Works for his approval? If there are any logical reasons for the delay we believe the public is entitled to know them. Is there anything we can do, if you need support to get action?"

Chairman Is in Albany

The bridge authority chairman was in Albany today, and it could not be determined if he had received the letter, which was dated yesterday.

The letter said: "Our special bridge committee is seriously concerned with the apparent lack of progress toward the completion of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge. This is the reason for this letter to you."

"After a conference, you authorized us to release a statement on Oct. 18, 1952 that plans for the bridge approaches would be completed in December, 1952, and that this would enable the state superintendent of public works to advertise for construction bids soon thereafter. You also stated that construction would start on the approaches early in the spring, and that bonds for the cost of bridge construction would be sold early in 1953, making it possible to start work on the bridge itself during 1953.

Committee Pleased in '52

"In the October 18th, 1952 release we stated that our committee was 'pleased and satisfied' with the progress report you gave us. In view of this we feel obligated to the public to find out why there has been this additional, apparently unreasonable, delay.

"We understand that absolutely no additional legislation of any kind is necessary to enable the New York State Bridge Authority to proceed with the construction of the bridge and the approaches to the nearest state highway. If this is not correct, please let us know so the public can be informed. It would stop many of the rumors and accusations now being made.

His Help Requested

"Our committee believes that you as a resident of Ulster county, a long-time and successful superintendent of the Ulster County Highway Department and now chairman of the bridge authority should have a vital interest in seeing the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge built at the earliest possible date. We, therefore, request that you do all you can to bring this about.

"The Kingston Chamber of Commerce played an active part in securing the introduction of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge bill back in 1947. We worked hard and received active support throughout the area on both sides of the river and we are still vitally interested in seeing the bridge built, for the convenience and necessity of the public. We now believe that there have been too many delays which up to the present time have not been satisfactorily explained. Because of the hundreds of inquiries we have received and the actions taken by other interested groups we have decided to release this letter with the request that it be published.

"Very truly yours,
"KINGSTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, INC.
"Special Bridge Committee
"James L. Rowe, Chairman."

Joneses Say Man Pushed Ladder; Fall 30, 25 Feet

Medical Examiner Hits at Suffocation

Babies Don't Die That Way, He Says; Cites Effect Upon Parents

Chicago, Feb. 27 (AP)—A New York medical examiner said flatly today that babies don't suffocate from pillows, bedcovers or bedclothing.

Dr. Jacob Werne said he has performed or witnessed autopsies on several thousand babies in the last 22 years without finding a single case of suffocation from those means caused by faulty posture of the baby.

Some doctors and pathologists, he contended, conclude that a baby has died from suffocation when no other cause of death is apparent.

"There is absolutely no justification for this as it can only lead to a feeling of guilt on the part of the parents," he said.

Dr. Werne said some babies have "an unusual susceptibility to infection" and that examinations by skilled pathologists show that most of the supposed suffocation deaths result from this cause.

Says It Is Unlikely

He said it is "very unlikely and very unusual" for a healthy baby to suffocate on regurgitated food or fluid sucked into the lungs.

Police Action May Come Against City Property Owner; Escape Serious Hurts

Richard and Frank Jones of the Jones Radio and Television Service, Hinsdale avenue, escaped serious injury yesterday when a ladder on which they had been working on Bruyn avenue was reportedly pushed over and threw them to the ground.

Police headquarters was notified at 5:20 p. m., of the incident, and Officers Peter Camp and William Hanley, who investigated, said Richard Jones claimed that a man, who complained that the ladder was on his property, "turned the ladder over."

Thrown 30 Feet

The police report said that Jones was thrown about 30 feet with some aerial equipment. He was on his way down the ladder at the time, they said.

Mrs. M. S. Jones, mother of the two, said today, however, that Frank Jones was near the bottom of the ladder and Richard was near the top at the time. It was estimated that Richard fell about 25 feet and suffered a thumb laceration. Frank, she said was hit under an arm with a pipe belonging to the aerial equipment.

No immediate action was taken against the man, who, the two say, was responsible for the mishap, but some later action was indicated.

Natural Gas Rates Boost Filed by Central Hudson

Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation announced today that it has filed with the Public Service Commission increased natural gas rates that will go into effect May 26, if approved. The proposed increase would average about 5 per cent to all of the utility company's natural gas customers.

Ernest R. Acker, president of Central Hudson, pointed out that the company is faced with, and is already paying, substantially higher rates for natural gas than when rates to its customers were reduced in the spring of 1950. On November 1, 1952 the rate charged Central Hudson by its natural gas supplier, the Columbia Gas System, was increased 20 per cent.

This increase was made necessary by higher wellhead prices of natural gas in the southwest and by the higher costs of transporting this gas to the North Atlantic seaboard. The 20 per cent increase results in an added cost of $163,000 annually which is more than Central Hudson can absorb, Mr. Acker explained.

"The added cost of our natural gas supply will have to be passed on to the company's customers if the company is to remain in a sound financial position to provide the type of service that its customers are entitled to receive," he added.

Two other factors were cited by Mr. Acker in the company's decision to file for increased gas rates. "The general price level has increased materially since 1950. The federal income tax rate has increased from 38 per cent in the spring of 1950 to 52 per cent now," he declared. "In addition, the Public Service Commission has adopted new safety rules for operation of gas distribution systems which will ultimately involve additional cost to the company of about $40,000 annually," Mr. Acker explained.

Here is how the present gas rates would be changed to establish the proposed new rate: (1) An increase in the initial and minimum charge for 200 cubic feet of gas per month from 95 cents to $1, and (2) An increase of 1 cent per 100 cubic feet in the price of gas included in each subsequent unit.

U. S. Living Costs Drop Slightly in Month, Government Reports; New Index Is Used

Washington, Feb. 27 (AP)—The government reported today that living costs dropped two-tenths of one per cent between mid-December and mid-January.

The decline, mainly due to lower retail prices for food and clothing, was reflected in a new consumer price index put out for the first time today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The new index is designed to reflect consumer price changes more accurately than did the one used previously. It prices more items, covers more cities and brings the calculations up to date on new consumer buying habits.

The new index for mid-January is 113.9. Government living cost figures always are a month or so late because of time required to compile them.

The figure means that in mid-January living costs were 13.9 per cent above the average for the 1947-49 period, which is used as the index base. It is 0.7 per cent above a year ago.

Many labor unions had contracts under which wage rates were to be adjusted upward or downward according to changes in the old index.

A spokesman for General Motors Corp. said the new living cost figures indicated a one cent-per-hour decrease in wages for about a half million of its employes.

He said, however, that because of government delay in publishing an "old series" index no adjustment in wage rates would be made for the time being.

The "old series" index was once abandoned by the government, but was recently revived on orders of President Eisenhower to accommodate employers and unions having "escalator" clauses geared to the "old series" index.

The "old index" standing in mid-January is to be announced later but not for several weeks.

Prospects are that the "old series" figure for mid-January will not become available until about April 1. Apparently, the auto industry intends to postpone any wage adjustment, due March 1, until either the "old series" index becomes available, or auto firms and the CIO Auto Workers Union agree on a method for applying the new index. Negotiations are under way.

The biggest price drop between mid-December and mid-January came in the meat category, dropping nearly two per cent.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said a modest price decrease was general in most of the 46 cities at which prices were obtained for the new index.

Food declined 0.6 per cent during the month. This put it 1.7 per cent below a year ago but 12.5 per cent above the June, 1950, pre-Korean war period. Prices were lower for poultry, fish and dairy products as well as meat. Fresh vegetables were up a bit.

Clothing costs continued to decline and dropped one-half of one per cent between December and January.

The January decline was described as largely seasonal. It left living costs only 0.3 per cent under the all-time high record last November.

The new index is patterned after the Bureau's prior one, but

Letter Asks Loughran Act on Span

Committee Declares It Has Responsibility to Public, Since Progress Cited Earlier

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce today released for publication a letter from its special bridge committee to James F. Loughran, chairman of the New York State Bridge Authority asking for a report on delays in starting work on the proposed bridge over the Hudson north of the city.

One question in the letter asks: "Would you please let us know why the bridge approach plans have not been completed and submitted to the State Superintendent of Public Works for his approval? If there are any logical reasons for the delay we believe the public is entitled to know them. Is there anything we can do, if you need support to get action?"

Chairman Is in Albany

The bridge authority chairman was in Albany today, and it could not be determined if he had received the letter, which was dated yesterday.

The letter said: "Our special bridge committee is seriously concerned with the apparent lack of progress toward the completion of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge. This is the reason for this letter to you."

"After a conference, you authorized us to release a statement on Oct. 18, 1952 that plans for the bridge approaches would be completed in December, 1952, and that this would enable the state superintendent of public works to advertise for construction bids soon thereafter. You also stated that construction would start on the approaches early in the spring, and that bonds for the cost of bridge construction would be sold early in 1953, making it possible to start work on the bridge itself during 1953.

Committee Pleased in '52

"In the October 18th, 1952 release we stated that our committee was 'pleased and satisfied' with the progress report you gave us. In view of this we feel obligated to the public to find out why there has been this additional, apparently unreasonable, delay.

"We understand that absolutely no additional legislation of any kind is necessary to enable the New York State Bridge Authority to proceed with the construction of the bridge and the approaches to the nearest state highway. If this is not correct, please let us know so the public can be informed. It would stop many of the rumors and accusations now being made.

His Help Requested

"Our committee believes that you as a resident of Ulster county, a long-time and successful superintendent of the Ulster County Highway Department and now chairman of the bridge authority should have a vital interest in seeing the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge built at the earliest possible date. We, therefore, request that you do all you can to bring this about.

"The Kingston Chamber of Commerce played an active part in securing the introduction of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge bill back in 1947. We worked hard and received active support throughout the area on both sides of the river and we are still vitally interested in seeing the bridge built, for the convenience and necessity of the public. We now believe that there have been too many delays which up to the present time have not been satisfactorily explained. Because of the hundreds of inquiries we have received and the actions taken by other interested groups we have decided to release this letter with the request that it be published.

"Very truly yours,
"KINGSTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, INC.
"Special Bridge Committee
"James L. Rowe, Chairman."

Ferry Loses, Is Newspaper Story

The Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry has operated at a $50,000 loss in the last six years, the Poughkeepsie New Yorker noted yesterday.

Losses by years, it said, were $5,131.63 in 1947, $10,721.23 in 1948, $1,075.06 in 1949, $23,398 in 1950 and $3,536.88 in 1952. The 1951 figures were not available.

Last year's operating expenses for nine months was $46,251.08, and the revenue was $42,714.20. It carried 74,520 vehicles and 25,454 pedestrians. The gain in vehicles over 1951 was 3,443 and in pedestrians 3,804.

The ferry was purchased by the New York State Bridge Authority in May, 1942 at a cost of $175,000 and $40,000 for the terminals.

The authority indicated this week that despite the favorable mild weather this season the ferry is not expected to resume operations before "some time in March." It operated last year through Dec. 31, and is to go to drydock for repairs before resuming this year.

Thought for Next July: It's Not Humidity, It's Atomized Seawater

New York, Feb. 27 (AP) — Comes now the case of New York's humidity versus the humidity in Miami, Fla.

The New York weather bureau meteorologist James Osmun, today found himself cornered by a pamphlet from the Miami Chamber of Commerce which said:

1. Miami does not have humidity.
2. When it's sticky in Miami, it's just "atomized seawater."
3. What's more, "atomized seawater" is healthy for you.

Osmun's reply:

New York's year-round humidity is a lot lower than Miami's "atomized seawater." Miami's four daily readings average 86, 85, 66 and 75 per cent. New York's three readings average 73, 58 and 66.

He admitted that New York's humidity is downright uncomfortable.

"When the seawater gets into the air in big doses," he said, "it isn't the heat, it's the —seawater—that makes it uncomfortable."

Take it away, Miami.

Fromer Has Short Session of Court

Due to the illness of County Judge John M. Cashin, County Judge Paul Fromer of Greene county held a short and concluding session of the February trial term of county court here this morning, disposing of several criminal matters.

Robert Mansfield, Sr. of Ulster Heights, charged by indictment with criminal negligence for the death of his four year old son who was fatally injured when a truck operated by the father overturned, entered a plea of guilty to reckless driving, a misdeameanor, and imposition of sentence was suspended. He was placed on probation for the maximum period.

Attorney Sherwood Davis appeared for Mansfield and said that he felt the grief over the accident had been sufficient punishment. District Attorney St. John said the plea to the lesser charge was acceptable to his office.

First Count Dismissed

Orman Tripp, charged with rape, first degree, by the grand jury and also assault, second degree, entered a plea of guilty to the assault charge.

Attorney Earl H. Houghtaling of Walden appeared for defendant and asked that the first count be dismissed and that bail be exonerated. Granted.

Tripp was sentenced to a term of from 1½ to 3 years in Clinton State Prison and execution of sentence was suspended. He was placed on probation.

Oliver Rufus Hults, Saugerties, entered a plea of guilty to an escape charge. Hults was charged with having escaped from a deputy while being brought to jail.

Attorney Seymour Werbalowsky appeared for the defendant. Hults was sentenced to six months in jail and given credit for the time already served.

On motion of Hugh Elwyn bail of $250 was set in the case of Thomas Elliott charged with burglary, third degree.

Will Go to Children's Court

Joseph Hoag, Jr., indicted by the grand jury for burglary, third degree, for an alleged act on November 1, 1952, sought through his counsel, Attorney Francis Martocci, dismissal of the indictment on the grounds he was not 16 when the crime was allegedly committed. A birth certificate was presented showing he was born at Hudson on November 10, 1936 and therefore was not 16 until nine days after the alleged crime.

District Attorney St. John consented to the dismissal. There is a Children's Court matter pending.

John Santosky, charged with possession of a pistol without having a permit, entered a plea of guilty to the charge.

Attorney Joseph Avis appeared for defendant. Judge Fromer placed defendant on probation and suspended imposition of any sentence.

Judge Fromer adjourned the term to chambers and all criminal matters were moved over to the April term.

Santa to Get Schooling

Omaha (AP)—There's a move afoot to remove the cause of some sour notes sounded here last Christmas on the subject of Santa Claus. Floyd S. Reep, recreation committee chairman of the City Park and Recreation Commission, has announced there'll be a school for Santa Clauses here next fall. At Christmastime, the Omaha World-Herald carried on its front page the complaint of a mother that at least one dour department store Kris Kringle seemed to have no Christmas spirit at all. The amateur Santas around town were even worse. Reep said. "Improper padding, hollow chuckle and phony whiskers that wouldn't fool any 20th Century kid," he observed.

California Chills Eskimo

Oakland, Calif. (AP)—A full-blooded Eskimo got so cold here he went to jail for a night recently just to get warmed up. James Morgan, 24, who lives in Bethel, Alaska, 75 miles from the Bering Sea, came here looking for work. When night came he went to city hall seeking a blanket to keep warm, finally deciding on jail. Back home he said the temperature drops to 63 below zero but people wear furs and parkas. He was surprised not to see a single parka here.

Marking of Voters Urged

Manila (AP)—The National Movement for Free Elections proposed to the Philippines Congress recently that it authorize the use of indelible ink to mark voters in the November presidential election and thus prevent them from balloting more than once. Philippine voters are required to affix their thumbmark on the ballot.

Ferry Loses, Is Newspaper Story

The Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry has operated at a $50,000 loss in the last six years, the Poughkeepsie New Yorker noted yesterday.

Losses by years, it said, were $5,131.63 in 1947, $10,721.23 in 1948, $1,075.06 in 1949, $23,398 in 1950 and $3,536.88 in 1952. The 1951 figures were not available.

The ferry was purchased by the New York State Bridge Authority in May, 1942 at a cost of $175,000 and $40,000 for the terminals.

The authority indicated this week that despite the favorable mild weather this season the ferry is not expected to resume operations before "some time in March." It operated last year through Dec. 31, and is to go to drydock for repairs before resuming this year.

Thought for Next July: It's Not Humidity, It's Atomized Seawater

New York, Feb. 27 (AP) — Comes now the case of New York's humidity versus the humidity in Miami, Fla.

The New York weather bureau meteorologist James Osmun, today found himself cornered by a pamphlet from the Miami Chamber of Commerce which said:

1. Miami does not have humidity.
2. When it's sticky in Miami, it's just "atomized seawater."
3. What's more, "atomized seawater" is healthy for you.

Osmun's reply:

New York's year-round humidity is a lot lower than Miami's "atomized seawater." Miami's four daily readings average 86, 85, 66 and 75 per cent. New York's three readings average 73, 58 and 66.

He admitted that New York's humidity is downright uncomfortable.

"When the seawater gets into the air in big doses," he said, "it isn't the heat, it's the —seawater—that makes it uncomfortable."

Take it away, Miami.

Will Take Up Issue

Washington, Feb. 27 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today the Senate probably will take up next Friday a resolution to condemn Russia for perverting World War 2 agreements to enslave other peoples. Taft, the Senate Republican leader, said he thinks a resolution submitted by President Eisenhower may be revised to include language making it clear Congress is not affirming the validity of the agreements themselves.

Says Settlement Made

Washington, Feb. 27 (AP)—Sen. Williams (R.-Del.) told the Senate today that Treasury officials allowed a Californian to settle a $521,601 claim for delinquent alcohol taxes by paying $100. In a Senate speech, Williams listed and denounced a series of tax settlements made at what he termed "an insignificant fraction" of the amounts the government claimed was due. Some of the cases went back to the 1930s and earlier.

Fromer Has Short Session of Court

Due to the illness of County Judge John M. Cashin, County Judge Paul Fromer of Greene county held a short and concluding session of the February trial term of county court here this morning, disposing of several criminal matters.

Robert Mansfield, Sr. of Ulster Heights, charged by indictment with criminal negligence for the death of his four year old son who was fatally injured when a truck operated by the father overturned, entered a plea of guilty to reckless driving, a misdemeanor, and imposition of sentence was suspended. He was placed on probation for the maximum period.

Attorney Sherwood Davis appeared for Mansfield and said that he felt the grief over the accident had been sufficient punishment. District Attorney St. John said the plea to the lesser charge was acceptable to his office.

First Count Dismissed

Orman Tripp, charged with rape, first degree, by the grand jury and also assault, second degree, entered a plea of guilty to the assault charge.

Attorney Earl H. Houghtaling of Walden appeared for defendant and asked that the first count be dismissed and that bail be exonerated. Granted.

Tripp was sentenced to a term of from 1½ to 3 years in Clinton State Prison and execution of sentence was suspended. He was placed on probation.

Oliver Rufus Hults, Saugerties, entered a plea of guilty to an escape charge. Hults was charged with having escaped from a deputy while being brought to jail.

Attorney Seymour Werbalowsky appeared for the defendant. Hults was sentenced to six months in jail and given credit for the time already served.

On motion of Hugh Elwyn ball of $250 was set in the case of Thomas Elliott charged with burglary, third degree.

Will Go to Children's Court

Joseph Hoag, Jr., indicted by the grand jury for burglary, third degree, for an alleged act on November 1, 1952, sought through his counsel, Attorney Francis Martocci, dismissal of the indictment on the grounds he was not 16 when the crime was allegedly committed. A birth certificate was presented showing he was born at Hudson on November 10, 1936 and therefore was not 16 until nine days after the alleged crime.

District Attorney St. John consented to the dismissal. There is a Children's Court matter pending.

John Santosky, charged with possession of a pistol without having a permit, entered a plea of guilty to the charge.

Attorney Joseph Avis appeared for defendant. Judge Fromer placed defendant on probation and suspended imposition of any sentence.

Judge Fromer adjourned the term to chambers and all criminal matters were moved over to the April term.

Santa to Get Schooling

Omaha (AP)—There's a move afoot to remove the cause of some sour notes sounded here last Christmas on the subject of Santa Claus. Floyd S. Reep, recreation committee chairman of the City Park and Recreation Commission, has announced there'll be a school for Santa Clauses here next fall. At Christmastime, the Omaha World-Herald carried on its front page the complaint of a mother that at least one dour department store Kris Kringle seemed to have no Christmas spirit at all. The amateur Santas around town were even worse, Reep said. "Improper padding, hollow chuckle and phony whiskers that wouldn't fool any 20th Century kid," he observed.

California Chills Eskimo

Oakland, Calif. (AP)—A full-blooded Eskimo got so cold here he went to jail for a night recently just to get warmed up. James Morgan, 24, who lives in Bethel, Alaska, 75 miles from the Bering Sea, came here looking for work. When night came he went to city hall seeking a blanket to keep warm, finally deciding on jail. Back home he said the temperature drops to 63 below zero but people wear furs and parkas. He was surprised not to see a single parka here.

Marking of Voters Urged

Manila (AP)—The National Movement for Free Elections proposed to the Philippines Congress recently that it authorize the use of indelible ink to mark voters in the November presidential election and thus prevent them from balloting more than once. Philippine voters are required to affix their thumbmark on the ballot.

Leaders of Red Germany Captives Of Young Fanatics

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent

Berlin (NEA)—The President, Premier and Deputy Premier of Communist Germany are today, for all practical purposes, the prisoners of their young, fanatical bodyguards.

Since the great new purge began in Eastern Europe, thousands have fled to the West, including high government officials. With Germany and her military know-how this continent's fattest prize, Moscow fears the loss of top dog Reich leaders, whose departure would be a shocking propaganda setback.

I have learned that 70 "Special Security Agents" have orders to "fire without hesitation" at any flight attempt by President Wilhelm Pieck, Premier Otto Grotewohl, or Deputy Premier Walter Ulbricht.

In a land of double cross and triple spy it is possible, during the current blood bath, that these three long-time Kremlin pets might slip from favor—into the hangman's noose.

The bodyguards, 17 to 24, were selected from the 80,000 "elite activists" of the Free German Youth (FDJ) movement, regarded by Comrade Stalin as his most dependable organization in East Germany.

Bluntly the U. S. High Commissioner's office states: "The security of the Soviet Zone is fast passing into the hands of youths trained by the FDJ . . ."

Your bodyguard, in a world of brutal politics, often becomes your warden. This was the case during the last days of Adolf Hitler, when Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler turned his right to "protect" Nazi leaders into the power to dominate them.

Remember: The government of Red Germany sits in East Berlin but a few minutes from the American, French and British sectors.

Concerned about world publicity at this time, when they're trying to scare West Germany out of joining the European Army, the Communists are striving to screen off these last holes in the curtain.

Before Pieck, Grotewohl or Ulbricht—the terrible triplets of Teutonic communism—can leave their homes, even to air a dachshund, they must check the broad shouldered Special Security Agents who clear it with the Staats Sicherheit Dienst (State Security Service).

The guards pack pistols and Russian burp guns, with round cartridge belts like motion picture reels. They form their own unit inside the SSD, the new secret police which carbon copies the Gestapo to the last rubber hose.

Their Mr. Big is FDJ Chief Erich Honecker, a 40-year-old Communist who somehow survived a tortured trip through six Nazi concentration camps.

An old hand at in-fighting with knee or broken bottle, Honecker led the Communist youth group "Spartakus" in street brawls with Hitler Jugend until old Von Hindenburg gave Adolf his baton of power. He shuttles between Berlin and Moscow for the Kremlin's blessing and a peep at the latest black list.

The Special Security Agents were picked for blind belief, ability to think fast as International Business Machine, and the physique of halfbacks.

They come from urban laboring families. Farmers who love their soil and are fighting collectivization, are "untrustworthy," and intellectuals with an idea of their own are thumbed down by calculating commissars.

Since the rugged 70 entered their barracks in the Aldershof section of East Berlin they have been as isolated as monks and encouraged to think themselves "Supermen."

They're forbidden friendly chats or even jiggers of schnapps with the men they guard. Intimacy might lead to "political collaboration."

Instructors tested them in knife fights and with strangle holds, searching for a flicker of fear. In the Secret Service GHQ in Lichtenberg they watched backsliders questioned, with blackjack and boot, and learned still finer methods of loosening tongues.

As I watched the six-foot "Supermen" tower over their charges at public events in East Berlin, their blonde hair worn heavy, long and oiled, I was reminded of yesterday's young SS "elite" troopers.

With terrible efficiency the SS ushered Nazi victims into the gas chambers and—when their world collapsed — fought with animal courage trying to deny Russian tanks the approach to Hitler's Berlin bunker.

Rabid Rat Bites Child

New York, Feb. 27 (AP)—A four-year-old girl was bitten by a rabies-infected rat last Friday near her home on 112th street, Ozone Park, Queens, and is being given anti-rabic injections, it was announced yesterday by Dr. John F. Mahoney, commissioner of the city department of health. Mahoney said 20 health department inspectors are working in the Ozone Park section to determine if there are other rabid rats there and also to learn the source of the infection. The name and address of the bitten girl were not disclosed by the department of health.

Defeat of Bill Urged in Talk At Kiwanis Club

Attorney N. LeVan Haver urged defeat of the state administration-sponsored compulsory automobile liability insurance bill in a talk before members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club at a meeting Thursday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Haver advocated instead that legislation be enacted setting up an unsatisfied judgments fund and an impounding statute.

Pointing out that Massachusetts is the only state presently having compulsory liability insurance, Haver contended such a law "leaves certain gaps" that prevent it from accomplishing its purpose.

The compulsory insurance law would not apply to cars driven into New York state from other states, he said, pointing out that "more out-of-state cars operate in New York state than in any other state of the union." It also would not cover stolen vehicles, vehicles used without the authorization of their owners, or hit and run cases, he said.

Political Football, He Says

Based upon the experience of Massachusetts, Haver said compulsory liability insurance will have the effect of making "rates a political football, as sure as day follows night."

If the Legislature fixes rates too low, the speaker said, companies will narrow their coverage. In Massachusetts, he said, the standard policy today offers coverage only for accidents on public highways within the state.

Enactment of the administration bill will also mean that the state will "head toward the insurance business itself."

Advocates Fund

Haver said he advocated the setting up an unsatisfied judgements fund, into which each vehicle owner if insured would contribute $1 at the time of obtaining his registration, and each uninsured driver would be assessed from $10 to $20. Insurance companies would contribute one-half of one per cent of their premium collections to the fund, which would be used to satisfy the just claims of persons injured by uninsured drivers.

With this fund, there should also be a statute permitting the state to immediately impound any vehicle not insured that becomes involved in an accident. The unsatisfied judgements fund would have first claim against the impounded automobile, and the result would be that "no finance company would sell an automobile on time payments unless the purchaser has a liability policy."

Haver pointed out that since the enactment of the financial responsibility law the percentage of insured vehicles in the state has increased from 30 to 95.

Timmerman will conclude his discussion with the theme You Litigate, which will include litigation both from the point of view of the defendant and the plaintiff.

While it is not necessary to attend all meeting such a procedure, nevertheless, is desirable since each evening's theme follows in logical sequence the one which preceded it. This is particularly true of the first two meetings. The film and discussion of the first meeting are necessary backgrounds for better understanding of the discussion of the second evening.

Leaders of Red Germany Captives Of Young Fanatics

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent

Berlin (NEA)—The President, Premier and Deputy Premier of Communist Germany are today, for all practical purposes, the prisoners of their young, fanatical bodyguards.

Since the great new purge began in Eastern Europe, thousands have fled to the West, including high government officials. With Germany and her military know-how this continent's fattest prize, Moscow fears the loss of top dog Reich leaders, whose departure would be a shocking propaganda setback.

I have learned that 70 "Special Security Agents" have orders to "fire without hesitation" at any flight attempt by President Wilhelm Pieck, Premier Otto Grotewohl, or Deputy Premier Walter Ulbricht.

In a land of double cross and triple spy it is possible, during the current blood bath, that these three long-time Kremlin pets might slip from favor—into the hangman's noose.

The bodyguards, 17 to 24, were selected from the 80,000 "elite activists" of the Free German Youth (FDJ) movement, regarded by Comrade Stalin as his most dependable organization in East Germany.

Bluntly the U. S. High Commissioner's office states: "The security of the Soviet Zone is fast passing into the hands of youths trained by the FDJ . . ."

Your bodyguard, in a world of brutal politics, often becomes your warden. This was the case during the last days of Adolf Hitler, when Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler turned his right to "protect" Nazi leaders into the power to dominate them.

Remember: The government of Red Germany sits in East Berlin but a few minutes from the American, French and British sectors.

Concerned about world publicity at this time, when they're trying to scare West Germany out of joining the European Army, the Communists are striving to screen off these last holes in the curtain.

Before Pieck, Grotewohl or Ulbricht—the terrible triplets of Teutonic communism—can leave their homes, even to air a dachshund, they must check the broad shouldered Special Security Agents who clear it with the Staats Sicherheit Dienst (State Security Service).

The guards pack pistols and Russian burp guns, with round cartridge belts like motion picture reels. They form their own unit inside the SSD, the new secret police which carbon copies the Gestapo to the last rubber hose.

Their Mr. Big is FDJ Chief Erich Honecker, a 40-year-old Communist who somehow survived a tortured trip through six Nazi concentration camps.

An old hand at in-fighting with knee or broken bottle, Honecker led the Communist youth group "Spartakus" in street brawls with Hitler Jugend until old Von Hindenburg gave Adolf his baton of power. He shuttles between Berlin and Moscow for the Kremlin's blessing and a peep at the latest black list.

The Special Security Agents were picked for blind belief, ability to think fast as International Business Machine, and the physique of halfbacks.

They come from urban laboring families. Farmers who love their soil and are fighting collectivization, are "untrustworthy," and intellectuals with an idea of their own are thumbed down by calculating commissars.

Since the rugged 70 entered their barracks in the Aldershof section of East Berlin they have been as isolated as monks and encouraged to think themselves "Supermen."

They're forbidden friendly chats or even jiggers of schnapps with the men they guard. Intimacy might lead to "political collaboration."

Instructors tested them in knife fights and with strangle holds, searching for a flicker of fear. In the Secret Service GHQ in Lichtenberg they watched backsliders questioned, with blackjack and boot, and learned still finer methods of loosening tongues.

As I watched the six-foot "Supermen" tower over their charges at public events in East Berlin, their blonde hair worn heavy, long and oiled, I was reminded of yesterday's young SS "elite" troopers.

With terrible efficiency the SS ushered Nazi victims into the gas chambers and—when their world collapsed — fought with animal courage trying to deny Russian tanks the approach to Hitler's Berlin bunker.

Rabid Rat Bites Child

New York, Feb. 27 (AP)—A four-year-old girl was bitten by a rabies-infected rat last Friday near her home on 112th street, Ozone Park, Queens, and is being given anti-rabic injections, it was announced yesterday by Dr. John F. Mahoney, commissioner of the city department of health. Mahoney said 20 health department inspectors are working in the Ozone Park section to determine if there are other rabid rats there and also to learn the source of the infection. The name and address of the bitten girl were not disclosed by the department of health.

Defeat of Bill Urged in Talk At Kiwanis Club

Attorney N. LeVan Haver urged defeat of the state administration-sponsored compulsory automobile liability insurance bill in a talk before members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club at a meeting Thursday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Haver advocated instead that legislation be enacted setting up an unsatisfied judgments fund and an impounding statute.

Pointing out that Massachusetts is the only state presently having compulsory liability insurance, Haver contended such a law "leaves certain gaps" that prevent it from accomplishing its purpose.

The compulsory insurance law would not apply to cars driven into New York state from other states, he said, pointing out that "more out-of-state cars operate in New York state than in any other state of the union." It also would not cover stolen vehicles, vehicles used without the authorization of their owners, or hit and run cases, he said.

Political Football, He Says

Based upon the experience of Massachusetts, Haver said compulsory liability insurance will have the effect of making "rates a political football, as sure as day follows night."

If the Legislature fixes rates too low, the speaker said, companies will narrow their coverage. In Massachusetts, he said, the standard policy today offers coverage only for accidents on public highways within the state.

Enactment of the administration bill will also mean that the state will "head toward the insurance business itself."

Advocates Fund

Haver said he advocated the setting up an unsatisfied judgements fund, into which each vehicle owner if insured would contribute $1 at the time of obtaining his registration, and each uninsured driver would be assessed from $10 to $20. Insurance companies would contribute one-half of one per cent of their premium collections to the fund, which would be used to satisfy the just claims of persons injured by uninsured drivers.

With this fund, there should also be a statute permitting the state to immediately impound any vehicle not insured that becomes involved in an accident. The unsatisfied judgements fund would have first claim against the impounded automobile, and the result would be that "no finance company would sell an automobile on time payments unless the purchaser has a liability policy."

Haver pointed out that since the enactment of the financial responsibility law the percentage of insured vehicles in the state has increased from 30 to 95.

Timmerman will conclude his discussion with the theme You Litigate, which will include litigation both from the point of view of the defendant and the plaintiff.

While it is not necessary to attend all meeting such a procedure, nevertheless, is desirable since each evening's theme follows in logical sequence the one which preceded it. This is particularly true of the first two meetings. The film and discussion of the first meeting are necessary backgrounds for better understanding of the discussion of the second evening.

PROBLEM OF SECRECY

The problem of secrecy in the framing of high government policy has been posed once again, in acute form, by the Eisenhower administration.

The President is himself responsible for this development. He has declared in deadly earnest that there shall be on leaks of information from top level conferences at the White House or in key agencies.

Despite his edict, leaks have occurred. But for the most part the lid has been clamped down with surprising effectiveness.

The question is: Is this good? Is it genuinely in the public interest that no inkling shall be had of important new policies when they are in the formative stage?

A good many responsible members of the press think it is not. They believe that in many matters it is too late for sensible debate when a policy is formally announced and ready for carrying out.

For instance, many observers thought that we plunged into the making of the H-bomb with shockingly insufficient public discussion of both the moral and the military aspects.

Of course, this being a free country, there is nothing to prevent debate subsequent to policy announcements. But often it is not in time to forestall action that might in the broad view be ill-considered. And even if it does effect a modification of policy, the result is likely to be a weakening and confusion in the nation's executive leadership.

It is much better, say the advocates of less secrecy in the early phases, to weigh the pros and cons before policy is formally fixed. Then, with the atmosphere cleared and rash plans tempered by the heat of debate, the country's leaders can adopt a line that will command greater popular allegiance and respect.

The argument on the other side is, for one thing, that security frequently makes wide public discussion of major issues utterly impractical. None of the opponents of secrecy want to violate security, but they declare that the term is too easily applied to information the public ought to have.

The defenders of secrecy say further that public attention on plans in their formative stage sorely handicaps the whole task of policy-making. They contend that only private conversations—free of the overhanging fear of public reaction — can produce the kind of mental free-for-all that is wholly fruitful.

Undoubtedly there is solid merit in this contention. But it is a point that plainly can be carried too far. It would seem fair to give the public reasonable cues to the main avenues being explored. This is a far different thing than disclosing every mental twist and turn of the high-level conferees.

By this means the administration would be able to test its chief ideas quickly in the crucible of public opinion, minimizing the prospect of serious error and of damage to the American leadership which is so vital to the free world.

IKE'S ATTITUDE

Many people believe that the policy of putting pressure on Europe to unite was devised by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. But others who remember President Eisenhower's speech in London on July 3, 1951, maintain that Dulles' moves are only the fulfilment of Ike's analysis which stated, "We cannot reach maximum security without a united Europe."

He was General Eisenhower than and he was attempting to unite Europe into a workable force against communism. The administration backing him was Democratic. But President Eisenhower has not changed since those worried days of work and trouble on the European continent when he spotted Europe's weakest link and called for strengthening it. He is still working in that direction.

Now is the time of the year when everyone finds out how well he did last year. The income tax collector reminds them, and painfully so.

INDIA'S DILEMMA

More and more, India supports the position of Soviet Russia against the United States. And more and more, it is being clarified that India's major fear is that an extension of the Korean War would involve India as a battlefield. The Indians have no means of defending their country against the forces of the United States, Soviet Russia or Soviet China and therefore strive to limit the war to Korea where the costs are borne principally by the United States.

In his recent address to Parliament, President of India, Dr. Rajendra Prasad said:

"Certain statements recently made and the consequences that might flow from them in extending the war in Korea, have caused considerable apprehension in the minds of people all over the world. My government has viewed these developments with grave concern. I trust that any tendency towards an extension of the war, which has already brought disaster in its train, will be checked, and the minds of nations and peoples will be turned towards a peaceful appproach to these problems. . . ."

What warking for peace means is not clear. Thus far, any proposals made by India have been to the advantage of Soviet Russia. Dr. Prasad made the point that India pursues a policy of friendship with all countries "without any alignment with one group of nations against another." If friendship is established by working to give a victory to our enemies, then India has shown us friendship! Otherwise, it must be regarded that India is accepting the Russian position, namely, that Stalin's peace terms benefit the world.

One of the major difficulties that face the American people in arriving at conclusions concerning our international relations is that the "One World" propaganda and support of the United Nations have caused us to forget our own country and the fact that it is Americans who die on the battlefield while all the little and weak nations split hairs over what we must do. It would appear that the United States has no right to form a policy of its own.

Dr. Prasad said that the Indian government had labored to build a new and prosperous India, but "the problems of the rest of the world thrust themselves upon us and we cannot avoid them or isolate ourselves from them. . . ." The United States is in much the same position as India: the problems of the whole world have been thrust upon us and we cannot isolate ourselves from them. The only difference is that the United States is called upon to pay the bills not only in money but in lives.

Whenever an effort is made to re-establish our position on a rational and equitable basis, a great outcry goes up in Europe and Asia. Even when it is suggested that the American taxpayer has contributed enough to support the selfish policies of other countries, we are, in effect, regarded as robbers because we wish to hold onto our own money.

"The Times of India," comments on this:

"President Eisenhower brings a military mind to bear on the problems of peace. Like many other soldiers, he delights in hunting for peace with a gun. . . ."

As false as that statement is, it is accepted in many countries which want our financial aid but reject our right to fight for our survival. We have been bogged down for almost 20 months in truce talks, while fighting in Korea continues and American casualties mount.

Yet, so influential a newspaper as "The Times of India" can say to its readers that Eisenhower, in effect, enjoys the hunt. Eisenhower inherited a meaningless, purposeless war which he must end with honor and dignity.

It would be a sad day for India if the United States withdrew from Korea, freeing the Chinese Communists to march on French Indo-China, Burma and Nepal. It would be a sadder day for India if Russia felt free to move into Pakistan, to seize Kashmir, and to lie on the borders of India, waiting for a combined Chinese-Russian action against that country.

Then the Indians would pipe another tune, calling for our help, as so many other nations call for our help in their moments of desperation. The help then might not be available, for, as neutralism grows in these countries, more of our people are turning colder to pouring aid into lands where what we do is not appreciated.

GETTING READY TO RETIRE

"Never before have so many people looked forward to so many years of retirement as now. This is because we are living longer. The average person of 65 can expect at least thirteen years more of life. Lots of people, of course, appear to welcome retirement as something to which they have long looked forward. Although they may not have made definite plans as to what they will do with their time, or where they will live, they have accepted the fact that retirement will come and trust to their natural zest for life to keep them busy and happy. Others go around with a secret dread in their hearts."

I am quoting from Public Affairs Pamphlet "Getting Ready to Retire" by Kathryn Close.

If you are one who has begun to feel the clutch of that dread, the only way you can get rid of it is to face some questions squarely. "What are the problems of retirement? What can you do about them?"

The pamphlet has the complete aswer to these questions.

You must adjust yourself to change. There is change in your status, in occupation, in income (usually a reduction), and frequently in living arrangements. And, as age advances, there come changes in physical capacity. "These changes cannot be avoided. But they can be met with sound and imaginative planning that can make the period of retirement as meaningful a part of the span of life as any other."

Our first thought should be our health because good health is life's greatest human asset. Regular visits to physician and dentist should be a must. This will prevent worrying about "suspected" ailments which should mean mental and emotional good health.

The pamphlet lists ten steps to happiness in retirement though each person must make his own way by facing squarely to the problems ahead and making an effort to match his own powers, likes, dislikes and possible opportunities to his needs in the future. I believe the suggestions are worthy of being repeated.

1. A regular income or other financial resources sufficient to provide independence and a sense of security.
2. An occupation, avocation, or absorbing hobby within his strength.
3. A pleasant place to live which will not put a strain on health, pocketbook or emotions.
4. A feeling of being useful through personal or community service.
5. The conservation of health.
6. A "positive" attitude toward self, others, and the world.

"The person who has been caught in retirement, without adequate preparation may travel a rough road, but he may enjoy the ride in the last lap of life's journey if he grips the wheel and follows the signs marked 'participations,' 'fellowship,' 'creativity' and 'service'."

Neurosis

Worrying about an ailment which does not really exict is to be "neurotic," a condition becoming increasingly common. Read Dr. Barton's interesting booklet entitled "Neurosis," which may be obtained by sending 10 cents, to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bell Syndicate, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Present plans call for ending the reconvened United Nations General Assembly meeting in New York at the end of March. It is felt in Washington that a month's session will serve to dispose of—at least temporarily—the nine items of unfinished business left over from the first part of the Assembly meeting last fall, plus a couple of new ones likely to be raised. They are Russian anti-Semitism and the Tunisian-Moroccan question.

If the Eisenhower administration has any new and dynamic proposals to make to the United Nations at this time, they are better-kept secrets than most of the other changes in policy since inauguration day.

This lack of any new aggressive actions before the UN was indicated by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles himself, at his first press conference.

He was asked if there was any plan to bring the question of a China blockade before the UN. He replied that there was no such plan that he was aware of. He then added as an afterthought that there might be some further appeal to avoid commerce with aggressors.

This is being taken in Washington to mean that the new U. S. delegation to the UN will play its tunes by ear. If some other country pitches a new note on which the American delegation can sing effectively, it will make music.

It was said that the first session of the present Assembly, which adjourned in December, could accomplish little because the policies of the outgoing Truman administration were dead.

If the second session accomplishes little more, it will be because the policies of the new Eisenhower administration have not been born.

Unfinished Business

The nine items of unfinished business which now face the Assembly are the following:

Korea. The Indian resolution on repatriation of Korean war prisoners, passed by a vote of 54 to 5, may be opened for revision. Reports on Korean unification, relief and reconstruction will be heard.

Report of the Disarmament Commission on limitation and balanced reduction of all armed forces and armaments.

Report of the Collective Measures Committee on methods to maintain and strengthen peace through UN security agreements.

Complaint of non-compliance by countries still detaining members of the Greek armed forces.

A Czechoslovak charge of U. S. interference, subversion and espionage against Russia, China and other Communist-dominated countries.

A Polish proposal to avert the threat of a third world war by declaring participation in the North Atlantic pact is aggression. It also calls upon the Big Five to conclude a world peace pact.

A U. S. request for an impartial investigation of false Soviet charges that this country had used bacteriological war in Korea.

Appointment of a new secretary general to succeed Trygve Lie of Norway, who has resigned.

Report of the secretary general on personnel policy, as it relates to employment on UN's staff of Americans considered subversive and disloyal to the U. S.

Time to Get Signals Straight

All these matters come before the Political Committee of the UN General Assembly, commonly known as Committee One. Plenary sessions of the assembly will be held only as Committee One is prepared to make its reports on items on the agenda.

In addition to Secretary of State Dulles, the American representatives will be Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., James J. Wadsworth and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, who are President Eisenhower's appointees, plus Ernest Gross, who is being retained from the Truman administration delegation.

There is still some uncertainty whether Ambassador Lodge, taking orders directly from the President, will set UN policy, or whether it will be set by Secretary Dulles, acting through the assistant secretary of state for UN affairs, John D. Hickerson.

When Secretary Hickerson, a career diplomat, was briefing Ambassador Lodge on his new duties, Hickerson began at one point by saying: "When we send you instructions . . ."

"I beg your pardon," interrupted Lodge.

Senator Lodge thought Hickerson was trying to say the State Department would give the orders. Actually, Hickerson meant that the State Department would give guidance based on experience. But this coming session of the assembly should serve as a training period in which the new team can get its signals straight.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 27—There seems to be quite an effort promoted by the "left wingers" here to try to drive some kind of wedge between the Eisenhower administration and Senator McCarthy.

It not only pops up at the press conferences, but it seems particularly to be fostered in State Department circles among some of those officials who remain from the Acheson regime.

The President is not likely to fall for these tactics. He wisely told his press conference that it wasn't up to him to make the rules for the conduct of congressional inquiries and that he would dislike to see any curtailment of the power of investigating committees.

Some published reports have tried to make it appear that Senator McCarthy is displeased by the new appointments in the State Department, when the exact opposite is the truth. The Wisconsin senator has every confidence in the attitude of Secretary Dulles and his new associates in ferreting out the security risks and the disloyal, if there are any left in the State Department. But Senator McCarthy is also interested in getting at the truth of what has happened in the past 20 years inside the government.

The importance of this effort is obvious—for the "left wing" is trying to make it appear that the whole agitation about Communists and Communist sympathizers is just a "witch hunt" or a "hysteria." The American people have never been given the facts about the cover-up practiced heretofore in the Department of State in protecting Communist sympathizers from exposure.

Nor have the facts been revealed as to the manner in which the Department of State virtually hamstrung the military men in fighting the war in Korea. Thus, a congressional committee has a right to find out how it happened that an order given by General MacArthur to bombard the bridges at the Yalu river over which the Chinese Communists were pouring into Korea was countermanded within three hours from Washington. Also, how did it happen that the Chinese Communist commander was so confident of his opportunity to put an army across the Yalu that he knew the bridges wouldn't be destroyed by the UN Air Force?

The President is represented as unfamiliar with Senator McCarthy's aims in his present inquiry. The purpose, of course, is not to cast aspersions on the new regime in the State Department, but to get at the record of the past which has been suppressed by one pretext or another. This involves a chain of circumstances that not only hampered the fighting in Korea but previously caused such a serious delay in the furnishing of military aid to Chiang Kai-shek as to lead to his defeat by the Communists.

The "left wing" is trying desperately to stop all legislative inquiries here into communistic activities. But the overwhelming vote of 315 to 2 in the House of Representatives, when the House Committee on UN-American Activities was granted $300,000 to continue its investigations, is a sign that the American people have not been swayed in the least by the cries of "hysteria" which have come from the "left wing."

The story of Klaus Fuchs, who stole the secrets of the atom bomb and gave them to Russia, is well known now, but the story of the propaganda campaign in behalf of the Rosenbergs, who helped Fuchs — an organized movement of Communist sympathizers — evidently doesn't interest the "left wing." It is well known that the Rosenbergs can have their sentences commuted if they tell what they know, as many another prisoner has done. Soviet Russian agents are financing the demonstrations which are certainly a suitable subject for legislative inquiry.

Then there are the college professors, ninety-nine per cent of whom are as bitter in their denunciation of communism as the anti-Communists in any other field. But the truth about the one per cent or less who were mixed up with the Communists ought to come out, if only as a warning to others lest they innocently join the various Communist-front organizations. It isn't primarily a question of teaching or of academic freedom, but a question of honesty and dishonesty in admitting or concealing conspiratorial connections.

The common outcry of the "left wingers" is that the McCarthy inquiries constitute a "guilt by association" doctrine. But on that subject Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson, in a concurring opinion of the Supreme Court of the United States in May 1950, said:

"'Guilt by association' is an epithet frequently used and little explained except that it is generally accompanied by another slogan, 'guilt is personal.' Of course it is, but personal guilt may be incurred by joining a conspiracy. That act of association makes one responsible for acts of others committed in pursuance of the association."

The congressional investigations have uncovered conspiracies that the courts and the FBI were unable to detect—notably the Teapot Dome scandals in the '20's and the Alger Hiss conspiracy at high level in the Department of State in recent years. Small wonder that Congress has voted again this week, as it has a score of times in the past, to give adequate funds to investigate communistic activities inside and outside the government.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I was one of the first Americans with a public voice to realize that Eleanor Roosevelt was a conspirator, a profiteer in the distress and confusion of the people of the United States and a persistent friend of Communists, who are enemies of my country.

When the story of this woman's character is written by an objective historian, perhaps 50 or 75 years hence, the confirmed facts which I have extricated from calculated obscurity will be drawn upon as historic material which otherwise would have been lost. A cult has developed around her which holds her in insensate reverence.

It has been suggested that my spirit in this pursuit was frivolous or sporty. Nothing could be wronger. I earnestly regard her as a menace to our national security, to public morals and civil ethics and the rights established by our constitution.

Dr. J. B. Matthews, another pioneer Red-baiter, recently published in the American Mercury a fine summary of Mrs. Roosevelt's guilt in coddling and patronizing a lot of young but, by no means juvenile or innocent, Reds in the very White House itself. It is a library piece which should be kept in every newspaper morgue and legislative collection.

Doctor Matthews deals, of course, with the case of Joe Lash, the one Red who enjoyed the highest favor with this old woman. I am pleased to be able to amplify even his authoritative data with the statement that Franklin D. Roosevelt in the spring of 1945 gave an arbitrary order as commander-in-chief that his wife's protege be permitted to attend the Officer Candidate's School of the Quartermaster Corps at Camp Lee, Va., so that he could get a commission, after all.

Prior to that, the navy had refused to give lash a ready-made, unearned commission and a safe assignment to "intelligence" work in New York. Robert Stripling, the chief investigator of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, caught hell because the committee refused to withdraw its data on Lash at her request. The committee stood pat because Lash refused to repudiate his career as a Red or to give information on his comrades.

In due course, Drew Pearson, ever ready to persecute enemies of communism, took after Stripling, who soon was drafted and removed from the scene of his labors against the treason for about one year. The malice against Stripling was so fierce and efficient that he could not even rise to the grade of Pfc. or join an outfit. He was an outcast, a yardbird from first to last. Pearson tried to have him shipped off to Japan after VJ-Day on the pretext that he was invaluable to General MacArthur, but Stripling replied that it was funny that such an indispensable man could not make Pfc. in a year.

In a hearing before a special subcommittee of the House Committee on Military Affairs on May 24, 1945, it was officially disclosed on the other hand that Franklin D. Roosevelt had arbitrarily ordered that Lash be given a commission in the army notwithstanding objections by the Information and Education Division, which held that he was "not the type." There were 8,000,000 men in that army, but Eleanor's husband found time, in the press of his great concerns, such as Yalta, to order a commission for his wife's Red friend while Stripling was picking up cigarette butts in the yard.

Stripling was an American Dreyfus, but La Boca's cult had no pity for him.

John J. McCloy, an assistant secretary of war then, later the hicogalorum of our extravagant civil administration in Germany and now the chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank, gave testimony regarding the secret policy of issuing commissions to confirmed Communists in the army. He was this way and that way on the subject, trying to justify something outrageous. A letter from McCloy was introduced relating Lash's military career in detail.

Lash was drafted on April 27, 1942 and assigned to study "weather observation" at Miami Beach. Soon afterwards, Mrs. Roosevelt called him from the ranks in a company formation to go with her on a social date. The casualties in "weather observation" were relatively very light.

In May, 1943, Lash went to the Pacific and soon turned up in charge of the local "information and education" program, a propaganda job whereby millions of poor, unsuspecting Joes got a dose of left-wing politics. He flew 102½ hours as a "weather observer" in 17 months and then put in for a transfer back home for a "course" in "information and education" in a special school at Lexington, Va.

He got his wish promptly. However, after he had completed his course, Lash was turned down for a commission in "information and education" on the ground that he was "not the type."

The very same day, Roosevelt ordered that Lash be admitted to an officer candidate school. Roosevelt also ordered that his activity in the American Youth Congress, which was a notorious Communist front, should not disqualify

PROBLEM OF SECRECY

The problem of secrecy in the framing of high government policy has been posed once again, in acute form, by the Eisenhower administration.

The President is himself responsible for this development. He has declared in deadly earnest that there shall be on leaks of information from top level conferences at the White House or in key agencies.

Despite his edict, leaks have occurred. But for the most part the lid has been clamped down with surprising effectiveness.

The question is: Is this good? Is it genuinely in the public interest that no inkling shall be had of important new policies when they are in the formative stage?

A good many responsible members of the press think it is not. They believe that in many matters it is too late for sensible debate when a policy is formally announced and ready for carrying out.

For instance, many observers thought that we plunged into the making of the H-bomb with shockingly insufficient public discussion of both the moral and the military aspects.

Of course, this being a free country, there is nothing to prevent debate subsequent to policy announcements. But often it is not in time to forestall action that might in the broad view be ill-considered. And even if it does effect a modification of policy, the result is likely to be a weakening and confusion in the nation's executive leadership.

It is much better, say the advocates of less secrecy in the early phases, to weigh the pros and cons before policy is formally fixed. Then, with the atmosphere cleared and rash plans tempered by the heat of debate, the country's leaders can adopt a line that will command greater popular allegiance and respect.

The argument on the other side is, for one thing, that security frequently makes wide public discussion of major issues utterly impractical. None of the opponents of secrecy want to violate security, but they declare that the term is too easily applied to information the public ought to have.

The defenders of secrecy say further that public attention on plans in their formative stage sorely handicaps the whole task of policy-making. They contend that only private conversations—free of the overhanging fear of public reaction—can produce the kind of mental free-for-all that is wholly fruitful.

Undoubtedly there is solid merit in this contention. But it is a point that plainly can be carried too far. It would seem fair to give the public reasonable cues to the main avenues being explored. This is a far different thing than disclosing every mental twist and turn of the high-level conferees.

By this means the administration would be able to test its chief ideas quickly in the crucible of public opinion, minimizing the prospect of serious error and of damage to the American leadership which is so vital to the free world.

The pamphlet has the complete aswer to these questions.

You must adjust yourself to change. There is change in your status, in occupation, in income (usually a reduction), and frequently in living arrangements. And, as age advances, there come changes in physical capacity. "These changes cannot be avoided. But they can be met with sound and imaginative planning that can make the period of retirement as meaningful a part of the span of life as any other."

Our first thought should be our health because good health is life's greatest human asset. Regular visits to physician and dentist should be a must. This will prevent worrying about "suspected" ailments which should mean mental and emotional good health.

The pamphlet lists ten steps to happiness in retirement though each person must make his own way by facing squarely to the problems ahead and making an effort to match his own powers, likes, dislikes and possible opportunities to his needs in the future. I believe the suggestions are worthy of being repeated.

1. A regular income or other financial resources sufficient to provide independence and a sense of of security.
2. An occupation, avocation, or absorbing hobby within his strength.
3. A pleasant place to live which will not put a strain on health, pocketbook or emotions.
4. A feeling of being useful through personal or community service.
5. The conservation of health.
6. A "positive" attitude toward self, others, and the world.

"The person who has been caught in retirement, without adequate preparatiop may travel a rough road, but he may enjoy the ride in the last lap of life's journey if he grips the wheel and follows the signs marked 'participations,' 'fellowship,' 'creativity' and 'service'."

Neurosis

Worrying about an ailment which does not really exict is to be "neurotic," a condition becoming increasingly common. Read Dr. Barton's interesting booklet entitled "Neurosis," which may be obtained by sending 10 cents, to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bell Syndicate, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Yeh, They'd Like to Make a Suggestion!

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Present plans call for ending the reconvened United Nations General Assembly meeting in New York at the end of March. It is felt in Washington that a month's session will serve to dispose of—at least temporarily—the nine items of unfinished business left over from the first part of the Assembly meeting last fall, plus a couple of new ones likely to be raised. They are Russian anti-Semitism and the Tunisian-Moroccan question.

If the Eisenhower administration has any new and dynamic proposals to make to the United Nations at this time, they are better-kept secrets than most of the other changes in policy since inauguration day.

This lack of any new aggressive actions before the UN was indicated by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles himself, at his first press conference.

He was asked if there was any plan to bring the question of a China blockade before the UN. He replied that there was no such plan that he was aware of. He then added as an afterthought that there might be some further appeal to avoid commerce with aggressors.

This is being taken in Washington to mean that the new U. S. delegation to the UN will play its tunes by ear. If some other country pitches a new note on which the American delegation can sing effectively, it will make music.

It was said that the first session of the present Assembly, which adjourned in December, could accomplish little because the policies of the outgoing Truman administration were dead.

If the second session accomplishes little more, it will be because the policies of the new Eisenhower administration have not been born.

Unfinished Business

The nine items of unfinished business which now face the Assembly are the following:

Korea. The Indian resolution on repatriation of Korean war prisoners, passed by a vote of 54 to 5, may be opened for revision. Reports on Korean unification, relief and reconstruction will be heard.

Report of the Disarmament Commission on limitation and balanced reduction of all armed forces and armaments.

Report of the Collective Measures Committee on methods to maintain and strengthen peace through UN security agreements.

Complaint of non-compliance by countries still detaining members of the Greek armed forces.

A Czechoslovak charge of U. S. interference, subversion and espionage against Russia, China and other Communist-dominated countries.

A Polish proposal to avert the threat of a third world war by declaring participation in the North Atlantic pact is aggression. It also calls upon the Big Five to conclude a world peace pact.

A U. S. request for an impartial investigation of false Soviet charges that this country had used bacteriological war in Korea.

Appointment of a new secretary general to succeed Trygve Lie of Norway, who has resigned.

Report of the secretary general on personnel policy, as it relates to employment on UN's staff of Americans considered subversive and disloyal to the U. S.

Time to Get Signals Straight

All these matters come before the Political Committee of the UN General Assembly, commonly known as Committee One. Plenary sessions of the assembly will be held only as Committee One is prepared to make its reports on items on the agenda.

In addition to Secretary of State Dulles, the American representatives will be Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., James J. Wadsworth and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, who are President Eisenhower's appointees, plus Ernest Gross, who is being retained from the Truman administration delegation.

There is still some uncertainty whether Ambassador Lodge, taking orders directly from the President, will set UN policy, or whether it will be set by Secretary Dulles, acting through the assistant secretary of state for UN affairs, John D. Hickerson.

When Secretary Hickerson, a career diplomat, was briefing Ambassador Lodge on his new duties, Hickerson began at one point by saying: "When we send you instructions . . ."

"I beg your pardon," interrupted Lodge.

Senator Lodge thought Hickerson was trying to say the State Department would give the orders. Actually, Hickerson meant that the State Department would give guidance based on experience. But this coming session of the assembly should serve as a training period in which the new team can get its signals straight.

The Palace of Diamonds

Palazzo dei Diamanti (Palace of Diamonds) in Ferrara, Italy, was built to commemorate a nickname. Duke Ercole I (1431-1505) was given the nickname of "Diamante" for his love of precious stones and luxury. To commemorate his nickname he built the palace and mounted in it 12,600 marble stones cut and polished to resemble diamonds. He later made the nickname into a family watchword and heraldic emblem.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 27—There seems to be quite an effort promoted by the "left wingers" here to try to drive some kind of wedge between the Eisenhower administration and Senator McCarthy.

It not only pops up at the press conferences, but it seems particularly to be fostered in State Department circles among some of those officials who remain from the Acheson regime.

The President is not likely to fall for these tactics. He wisely told his press conference that it wasn't up to him to make the rules for the conduct of congressional inquiries and that he would dislike to see any curtailment of the power of investigating committees.

Some published reports have tried to make it appear that Senator McCarthy is displeased by the new appointments in the State Department, when the exact opposite is the truth. The Wisconsin senator has every confidence in the attitude of Secretary Dulles and his new associates in ferreting out the security risks and the disloyal, if there are any left in the State Department. But Senator McCarthy is also interested in getting at the truth of what has happened in the past 20 years inside the government.

The importance of this effort is obvious—for the "left wing" is trying to make it appear that the whole agitation about Communists and Communist sympathizers is just a "witch hunt" or a "hysteria." The American people have never been given the facts about the cover-up practiced heretofore in the Department of State in protecting Communist sympathizers from exposure.

Nor have the facts been revealed as to the manner in which the Department of State virtually hamstrung the military men in fighting the war in Korea. Thus, a congressional committee has a right to find out how it happened that an order given by General MacArthur to bombard the bridges at the Yalu river over which the Chinese Communists were pouring into Korea was countermanded within three hours from Washington. Also, how did it happen that the Chinese Communist commander was so confident of his opportunity to put an army across the Yalu that he knew the bridges wouldn't be destroyed by the UN Air Force?

The President is represented as unfamiliar with Senator McCarthy's aims in his present inquiry. The purpose, of course, is not to cast aspersions on the new regime in the State Department, but to get at the record of the past which has been suppressed by one pretext or another. This involves a chain of circumstances that not only hampered the fighting in Korea but previously caused such a serious delay in the furnishing of military aid to Chiang Kai-shek as to lead to his defeat by the Communists.

The "left wing" is trying desperately to stop all legislative inquiries here into communistic activities. But the overwhelming vote of 315 to 2 in the House of Representatives, when the House Committee on UN-American Activities was granted $300,000 to continue its investigations, is a sign that the American people have not been swayed in the least by the cries of "hysteria" which have come from the "left wing."

The story of Klaus Fuchs, who stole the secrets of the atom bomb and gave them to Russia, is well known now, but the story of the propaganda campaign in behalf of the Rosenbergs, who helped Fuchs—an organized movement of Communist sympathizers — evidently doesn't interest the "left wing." It is well known that the Rosenbergs can have their sentences commuted if they tell what they know, as many another prisoner has done. Soviet Russian agents are financing the demonstrations which are certainly a suitable subject for legislative inquiry.

Then there are the college professors, ninety-nine per cent of whom are as bitter in their denunciation of communism as the anti-Communists in any other field. But the truth about the one per cent or less who were mixed up with the Communists ought to come out, if only as a warning to others lest they innocently join the various Communist-front organizations. It isn't primarily a question of teaching or of academic freedom, but a question of honesty and dishonesty in admitting or concealing conspiratorial connections.

The common outcry of the "left wingers" is that the McCarthy inquiries constitute a "guilt by association" doctrine. But on that subject Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson, in a concurring opinion of the Supreme Court of the United States in May 1950, said:

"'Guilt by association' is an epithet frequently used and little explained except that it is generally accompanied by another slogan, 'guilt is personal.' Of course it is, but personal guilt may be incurred by joining a conspiracy. That act of association makes one responsible for acts of others committed in pursuance of the association."

The congressional investigations have uncovered conspiracies that the courts and the FBI were unable to detect—notably the Teapot Dome scandals in the '20's and the Alger Hiss conspiracy at high level in the Department of State in recent years. Small wonder that Congress has voted again this week, as it has a score of times in the past, to give adequate funds to investigate communistic activities inside and outside the government.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I was one of the first Americans with a public voice to realize that Eleanor Roosevelt was a conspirator, a profiteer in the distress and confusion of the people of the United States and a persistent friend of Communists, who are enemies of my country.

When the story of this woman's character is written by an objective historian, perhaps 50 or 75 years hence, the confirmed facts which I have extricated from calculated obscurity will be drawn upon as historic material which otherwise would have been lost. A cult has developed around her which holds her in insensate reverence.

It has been suggested that my spirit in this pursuit was frivolous or sporty. Nothing could be wronger. I earnestly regard her as a menace to our national security, to public morals and civil ethics and the rights established by our constitution.

Dr. J. B. Matthews, another pioneer Red-baiter, recently published in the American Mercury a fine summary of Mrs. Roosevelt's guilt in coddling and patronizing a lot of young but, by no means juvenile or innocent, Reds in the very White House itself. It is a library piece which should be kept in every newspaper morgue and legislative collection.

Doctor Matthews deals, of course, with the case of Joe Lash, the one Red who enjoyed the highest favor with this old woman. I am pleased to be able to amplify even his authoritative data with the statement that Franklin D. Roosevelt in the spring of 1945 gave an arbitrary order as commander-in-chief that his wife's protege be permitted to attend the Officer Candidate's School of the Quartermaster Corps at Camp Lee, Va., so that he could get a commission, after all.

Prior to that, the navy had refused to give lash a ready-made, unearned commission and a safe assignment to "intelligence" work in New York. Robert Stripling, the chief investigator of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, caught hell because the committee refused to withdraw its data on Lash at her request. The committee stood pat because Lash refused to repudiate his career as a Red or to give information on his comrades.

In due course, Drew Pearson, ever ready to persecute enemies of communism, took after Stripling, who soon was drafted and removed from the scene of his labors against the treason for about one year. The malice against Stripling was so fierce and efficient that he could not even rise to the grade of Pfc. or join an outfit. He was an outcast, a yardbird from first to last. Pearson tried to have him shipped off to Japan after VJ-Day on the pretext that he was invaluable to General MacArthur, but Stripling replied that it was funny that such an indispensable man could not make Pfc. in a year.

In a hearing before a special subcommittee of the House Committee on Military Affairs on May 24, 1945, it was officially disclosed on the other hand that Franklin D. Roosevelt had arbitrarily ordered that Lash be given a commission in the army notwithstanding objections by the Information and Education Division, which held that he was "not the type." There were 8,000,000 men in that army, but Eleanor's husband found time, in the press of his great concerns, such as Yalta, to order a commission for his wife's Red friend while Stripling was picking up cigarette butts in the yard.

Stripling was an American Dreyfus, but La Boca's cult had no pity for him.

John J. McCloy, an assistant secretary of war then, later the hicogalorum of our extravagant civil administration in Germany and now the chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank, gave testimony regarding the secret policy of issuing commissions to confirmed Communists in the army. He was this way and that way on the subject, trying to justify something outrageous. A letter from McCloy was introduced relating Lash's military career in detail.

Lash was drafted on April 27, 1942 and assigned to study "weather observation" at Miami Beach. Soon afterwards, Mrs. Roosevelt called him from the ranks in a company formation to go with her on a social date. The casualties in "weather observation" were relatively very light.

In May, 1943, Lash went to the Pacific and soon turned up in charge of the local "information and education" program, a propaganda job whereby millions of poor, unsuspecting Joes got a dose of left-wing politics. He flew 102½ hours as a "weather observer" in 17 months and then put in for a transfer back home for a "course" in "information and education" in a special school at Lexington, Va.

He got his wish promptly. However, after he had completed his course, Lash was turned down for a commission in "information and education" on the ground that he was "not the type."

The very same day, Roosevelt ordered that Lash be admitted to an officer candidate school. Roosevelt also ordered that his activity in the American Youth Congress, which was a notorious Communist front, should not disqualify

Seven Million German Children Now Firmly in Stalin's Hands

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent

Berlin — (NEA) — This Spring militarized Communist German teen-agers will hold their first warlike field maneuvers.

On the rolling plains of Mecklenburg, in East Germany, battalions of the trained juniors, 14 to 17, will maneuver with the now fully-activated Northern Group of the East German Wehrmacht.

Companies of husky boys will dig entrenchments, repair roads and haul ammo. Others will man anti-aircraft guns, maintain communications and run messages.

"Commandos" of primary school age will sabotage enemy dumps, snipe, cut off stragglers, plant mines.

Girls will treat wounded and, in civvies, infiltrate enemy lines to spy out artillery positions.

Political officers will frankly tell all: "The war-game 'enemy' is the American 'imperialist.'"

Supervising will be high ranking Soviet officers attached to the reborn Wehrmacht — this time under a red flag, not a swastika.

Those maneuvering will be but part of the 7,000,000 German children now firmly in Stalin's hands as members of the Freie Deutsche Jugend (FDJ).

Organized town by town and block by block, Free German Youth represents the Kremlin's boldest move to cement its control of East Germany into the distant tomorrow.

Analysis of the flood of refugees now fleeing East Europe proves FDJ juniors to be Moscow's most loyal, devoted human satellites.

To get the frightful feel of militarism reborn, come with me into a huge gymnasium in East Berlin and look at the stage.

Onto a wooden platform strut three straw blonde children, erect as palace guards, and blow a series of spine-tingling bugle blasts.

Then, with theatrical flourish, the ceiling lights dim. One spot picks out a wall portrait of Joseph Stalin over a blue, white and gold FDJ banner. Another beams on a sturdy Gruppenfuehrer (group leader).

For a split second his hard blue eyes scan the precise lines of several hundred youngsters, the largest 14, the smallest six.

They stand at absolute attention, silent; not a baby hand twitches, not a pair of lips smile. Their uniforms are well-pressed.

The Grupperfuehrer raises his right arm in a salute almost identical with that favored by Hitler's brown shirts, except the elbow bends and the hand, palm out, is almost parallel with the forehead.

Like a drill sergeant-major he cries: "Achtung! Pioneers. Are you ready?"

With fingers rigid, all hands raise and the children, with almost a single voice, bark out the reply like a clip of pistol shots: "Ever ready."

The Gruppenfuehrer again: "Are you ready to work and fight and die for a united Fatherland and in defense of our Soviet brothers against American imperialism?"

Again the children: "Ever ready."

This scene, featuring the Pioneers, FDJ's junior unit, is repeated almost daily in thousands of halls all over Red Germany.

For those who remember the brown-uniformed masses goose stepping at Nurenberg rallies this is simply the rebirth of the Hitler Jugend, except they go "Hoch Stalin" instead of "Heil Hitler."

While the Allies continue to hem and haw and do the diplomatic double shuffle and are yet to arm one West German trooper, the Communists have in lusty legions 120,000 men and will draw 80,000 more from the FDJ in the next year.

Over the caviar-laden banquet tables at Yalta, Stalin agreed with Churchill and Roosevelt that militarism, as such must never return to the Reich.

But today FDJ rallies feature such ditties as "Battle Song for the Young Generation" with these punch lines:

"We want to be soldiers for the people
"And fighters for our Fatherland.
"We will be the people's soldiers
"And Germany will be yours and mine."

When Communist kiddies sing of a Germany (that) will be yours and mine" they mean without the irritating pimple of a Free Berlin, without the French, British and American Zones.

Discussing the youth movement the U. S. High Commissioner's Office says: "FDJ leaders are instructed in guerrilla tactics... 'elite' groups are being accustomed to the 'putsch' idea and physical violence."

All Allied officials agree: If the Russians dare a World War and move to crush us in Berlin, FDJ hoodlums would spear-head the street brawls.

Mature citizens, who saw Germany brought to waste by just such wild-eyed youngsters, shake their heads and say: "Yah. Yah. In Germany a little child again might lead us to the grave."

ORGANIZED TOWN BY TOWN, Free German Youth marching under banners like these represent the Kremlin's boldest move to cement its control of East Germany into the distant tomorrow.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Florida, Feb. 27—The constantly increasing shorter hours, combined with higher prices, which are largely the result of shorter hours, are developing a new industry—namely, the "Do-It-Yourself" industry.

For a time the manufacturers of paint, wallpaper, etc., in order to protect the local painters and paperers, refused to advertise their products for the housewife to use herself. Now, however, you will find large advertisements in leading magazines urging people to 'short-circuit" the local artisan.

To further this "Do-It-Yourself" movement, manufacturers now sell wallpaper already to hang, with the blank margins cut off. They are selling paint rollers to take the place of brushes and a new paint with a rubber base for quick and perfect application. What Gillette did to the old-fashioned razor, this new movement is doing to brushes and paints.

Homes and Furniture

For several years families have been able to buy unpainted and knocked-down furniture; but the prices were high on the latter. Today, however, one needs to buy only ply-board and certain metal clamps from a lumber dealer. For a small fee the lumber dealer will cut the pieces as needed for tables and chairs.

The big development has been in young people building their own homes. Two couples will buy adjoining lots, make joint contracts for the foundations, and then go ahead with different plans. These plans can be bought with complete details for ordering, cutting and erecting the house. For heavy work, when two men are needed, they help each other. The only outside help needed is a plumber. This may explain why a prominent columnist stated "The new President's Cabinet consists of 11 millionaires and one plumber!"

Practical Hobbies

Physicians are now prescribing hobbies instead of pills. In fact, hobbies are now so used that most drug stores sell Hobby Magazines. These magazines urge useful hobbies and show how furniture, toys and other things may be made at home. They are great boosters of the "Do-It-Yourself" industry.

Not only does the hobby industry benefit the nation's health, but by it parents set a fine example to their children. It not only is better for the kids to see their Dad working—instead of playing golf—but it enables the father and boy to work together and become better acquainted. Hence, the social and educational advantages.

New Stores Will Open

I believe you will see "Do-It-Yourself" stores open. If I were a young chap and wanted to open a small specialty store, I would enter this field, combining some sporting goods with it. The same factors of shorter hours and higher costs are forcing many families to indulge in inexpensive and healthful sports.

Another suggestion is that you become a salesman on commission for some lumber dealer to sell "Build-It-Yourself" houses. It would interest almost every young couple to at least hear your story. It also might be combined with the real estate business. Before building a house one must secure the land.

Something to Consider

I have often wondered why house builders do not sell furniture and home furnishings. Or why furniture dealers do not sell houses. This is a combination which should appeal to many customers and should be advertised in the local newspapers.

In fact, as I look into the future, I expect to see much more local advertising of this "Do-It-Yourself" idea. Many newspapers are afraid to push it for fear of offending the local builders, painters, furniture dealers, and other present advertisers. I, however, believe this to be short sighted because the future of every newspaper and every present advertiser depends ultimately on the growth of the community, which depends on the adoption of all new ideas.

Comforter Cubs Celebrate Scout, Own Organization

The celebration of the 43rd anniversary of the Boy Scout movement and the second anniversary of Cub Pack 15 was held Wednesday evening at the Comforter Hall, with approximately 150 people attending the Blue and Gold banquet featuring Scout Executive George V. Dennis as the speaker of the evening. The invocation was delivered by the Rev. Forrest R. Prindle, pastor of the Reformed Church of the Comforter, sponsoring organization of Pack 15.

Following the banquet, arranged by Den Mother Ann Gibbs and Edith DeWitt with the assistance of the pack committee and mothers of the Cub Scouts, Richard W. Stillings, toastmaster, introduced Pack Committee Chairman Howard A. DeWitt who traced the progress of the Cub Pack during the year and expressed his appreciation to committee members and parents "whose cooperation had made the year a success." Neighborhood Commissioner Edward Leudtke also spoke briefly concerning the past year's record of Pack 15.

Scout Commissioner Robert Tremper, known to the Cub Scouts as "Uncle Stumpy," led the entire group in various games and songs and was "loudly received" by the Cub Scouts. Den mothers, den dads, and pack committeemen were called upon by Toastmaster Stillings to be recognized and were applauded by the assemblage.

Speaks on Progress

The flag ceremony for the evening was conducted by Den 5, Mrs. Betty Freer, den mother, and then an impressive induction ceremony was performed by the Cubmaster to receive Daniel W. Scully into the membership of Pack 15, Den 4.

Cubmaster Henry P. Eighmey spoke briefly concerning pack progress during the year, emphasizing the activity of the den mothers, den dads, and den chiefs who cooperated to make the program one that would be acceptable to the Cub Scouts. He read an excerpt from a survey made of Pack 15 one year previous, in which the assertion was made that the pack could become the leading unit of its kind in the Rip Van Winkle Council—"and today I believe we hold that position," he said. The Cubmaster also paid tribute to District Commissioner Leudtke and Scout Executive Dennis as "the men behind the scenes who were always ready with advice and help to guide the destinies of Pack 15." Mrs. Winifred Nickerson, retiring den mother, was awarded the Certificate of Recognition for her service to the Pack.

Awards Are Given

Assistant Cubmaster Philip H. Gillen made the awards for the month, including the parent-attendance pennant to Den 5 for the highest percentage of parents present at the banquet. The following Cub Scouts received awards: Den 1: Daniel Landi, silver arrow; Den: 2 James Connelly, silver arrow, Terry Kalish, silver arrow, John Gillen, silver arrow, Charles Rion, silver arrow, Karl Glotzl, silver arrow; Den 3: Keith Winne, bear badge, William Bodenweber, three silver arrows; William Hart, gold arrow, Harold Hart, silver arrow, Richard Harbig, gold arrow; Den 4: Roger Nickerson, lion badge, Charles Hill, denner's stripe, Charles Baxter, assistant denner's stripe; Den 5: Robert Gillen, silver arrow, Bruce Freer, silver arrow. Cubmaster Henry P. Eighmey and Den Mother Betty Eighmey were awarded one year service stars.

Scout Executive George V. Dennis spoke concerning the record of Pack 15 during the year and emphasized the idea of cooperative effort being essential to the success of the Cub Scouting program —pointing out that participants in a program should both receive benefits and give of their talents to insure the maximum results.

The Blue and Gold banquet was closed with a grand cheer by the Cub Scouts in appreciation of the efforts of the committee in the presentation of the evening's program.

THE GREATEST BUICK
IN 50 GREAT YEARS

THE getaway of any 1953 Buick—SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER—is, in one word, dazzling.

Two things account for this. First: increased horsepowers and compression ratios. Second: Buick's new Twin-Turbine Dynaflow Drive.*

In every SUPER and ROADMASTER for 1953 is a new kind of V8 Engine—the first Fireball V8—and the world's most advanced V8, first in any passenger car to reach 8.5 to 1 compression. In every SPECIAL is a newly designed F-263 Fireball 8 Engine with the highest horsepower and compression ever offered in this Series.

To get fullest benefit from these brilliant engines, Buick engineers designed a new Dynaflow with two turbines instead of one.

Result: flash-fast getaway—less sound--and improved efficiency—added to the infinite smoothness of this power transfer. Getaway that brings the 1953 Buick SPECIAL up to 30 mph in fewer seconds than the mighty 1952 ROADMASTER.

But these Golden Anniversary Buicks put you way ahead in more than time and distance.

You're way out front in style, in comfort, in ride, in handling ease —and, very definitely, in value.

We'd like to prove that to you—while you're sampling any one of the greatest Buicks in fifty great years. Why not drop in this week?

Seven Million German Children Now Firmly in Stalin's Hands

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent

Berlin — (NEA) — This Spring militarized Communist German teen-agers will hold their first warlike field maneuvers.

On the rolling plains of Mecklenburg, in East Germany, battalions of the trained juniors, 14 to 17, will maneuver with the now fully-activated Northern Group of the East German Wehrmacht.

Companies of husky boys will dig entrenchments, repair roads and haul ammo. Others will man anti-aircraft guns, maintain communications and run messages.

"Commandos" of primary school age will sabotage enemy dumps, snipe, cut off stragglers, plant mines.

Girls will treat wounded and, in civvies, infiltrate enemy lines to spy out artillery positions.

Political officers will frankly tell all: "The war-game 'enemy' is the American 'imperialist.'"

Supervising will be high ranking Soviet officers attached to the reborn Wehrmacht — this time under a red flag, not a swastika.

Those maneuvering will be but part of the 7,000,000 German children now firmly in Stalin's hands as members of the Freie Deutsche Jugend (FDJ).

Organized town by town and block by block, Free German Youth represents the Kremlin's boldest move to cement its control of East Germany into the distant tomorrow.

Analysis of the flood of refugees now fleeing East Europe proves FDJ juniors to be Moscow's most loyal, devoted human satellites.

To get the frightful feel of militarism reborn, come with me into a huge gymnasium in East Berlin and look at the stage.

Onto a wooden platform strut three straw blonde children, erect as palace guards, and blow a series of spine-tingling bugle blasts.

Then, with theatrical flourish, the ceiling lights dim. One spot picks out a wall portrait of Joseph Stalin over a blue, white and gold FDJ banner. Another beams on a sturdy Gruppenfuehrer (group leader).

They stand at absolute attention, silent; not a baby hand twitches, not a pair of lips smile. Their uniforms are well-pressed.

The Grupperfuehrer raises his right arm in a salute almost identical with that favored by Hitler's brown shirts, except the elbow bends and the hand, palm out, is almost parallel with the forehead.

Like a drill sergeant-major he cries: "Achtung! Pioneers. Are you ready?"

With fingers rigid, all hands raise and the children, with almost a single voice, bark out the reply like a clip of pistol shots: "Ever ready."

The Gruppenfuehrer again: "Are you ready to work and fight and die for a united Fatherland and in defense of our Soviet brothers against American imperialism?"

Again the children: "Ever ready."

This scene, featuring the Pioneers, FDJ's junior unit, is repeated almost daily in thousands of halls all over Red Germany.

For those who remember the brown-uniformed masses goose stepping at Nurenberg rallies this is simply the rebirth of the Hitler Jugend, except they go "Hoch Stalin" instead of "Heil Hitler."

While the Allies continue to hem and haw and do the diplomatic double shuffle and are yet to arm one West German trooper, the Communists have in lusty legions 120,000 men and will draw 80,000 more from the FDJ in the next year.

Over the caviar-laden banquet tables at Yalta, Stalin agreed with Churchill and Roosevelt that militarism, as such must never return to the Reich.

But today FDJ rallies feature such ditties as "Battle Song for the Young Generation" with these punch lines:

"We want to be soldiers for the people
"And fighters for our Fatherland.
"We will be the people's soldiers
"And Germany will be yours and mine."

When Communist kiddies sing of a Germany (that) will be yours and mine" they mean without the irritating pimple of a Free Berlin, without the French, British and American Zones.

Discussing the youth movement the U. S. High Commissioner's Office says: "FDJ leaders are instructed in guerrilla tactics... 'elite' groups are being accustomed to the 'putsch' idea and physical violence."

All Allied officials agree: If the Russians dare a World War and move to crush us in Berlin, FDJ hoodlums would spear-head the street brawls.

Mature citizens, who saw Germany brought to waste by just such wild-eyed youngsters, shake their heads and say: "Yah. Yah. In Germany a little child again might lead us to the grave."

ORGANIZED TOWN BY TOWN, Free German Youth marching under banners like these represent the Kremlin's boldest move to cement its control of East Germany into the distant tomorrow.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Florida, Feb. 27—The constantly increasing shorter hours, combined with higher prices, which are largely the result of shorter hours, are developing a new industry—namely, the "Do-It-Yourself" industry.

For a time the manufacturers of paint, wallpaper, etc., in order to protect the local painters and paperers, refused to advertise their products for the housewife to use herself. Now, however, you will find large advertisements in leading magazines urging people to 'short-circuit' the local artisan.

To further this "Do-It-Yourself" movement, manufacturers now sell wallpaper already to hang, with the blank margins cut off. They are selling paint rollers to take the place of brushes and a new paint with a rubber base for quick and perfect application. What Gillette did to the old-fashioned razor, this new movement is doing to brushes and paints.

Homes and Furniture

For several years families have been able to buy unpainted and knocked-down furniture; but the prices were high on the latter. Today, however, one needs to buy only ply-board and certain metal clamps from a lumber dealer. For a small fee the lumber dealer will cut the pieces as needed for tables and chairs.

The big development has been in young people building their own homes. Two couples will buy adjoining lots, make joint contracts for the foundations, and then go ahead with different plans. These plans can be bought with complete details for ordering, cutting and erecting the house. For heavy work, when two men are needed, they help each other. The only outside help needed is a plumber. This may explain why a prominent columnist stated "The new President's Cabinet consists of 11 millionaires and one plumber!"

Practical Hobbies

Physicians are now prescribing hobbies instead of pills. In fact, hobbies are now so used that most drug stores sell Hobby Magazines. These magazines urge useful hobbies and show how furniture, toys and other things may be made at home. They are great boosters of the "Do-It-Yourself" industry.

Not only does the hobby industry benefit the nation's health, but by it parents set a fine example to their children. It not only is better for the kids to see their Dad working—instead of playing golf—but it enables the father and boy to work together and become better acquainted. Hence, the social and educational advantages.

New Stores Will Open

I believe you will see "Do-It-Yourself" stores open. If I were a young chap and wanted to open a small specialty store, I would enter this field, combining some sporting goods with it. The same factors of shorter hours and higher costs are forcing many families to indulge in inexpensive and healthful sports.

Another suggestion is that you become a salesman on commission for some lumber dealer to sell "Build-It-Yourself" houses. It would interest almost every young couple to at least hear your story. It also might be combined with the real estate business. Before building a house one must secure the land.

Something to Consider

I have often wondered why house builders do not sell furniture and home furnishings. Or why furniture dealers do not sell houses. This is a combination which should appeal to many customers and should be advertised in the local newspapers.

In fact, as I look into the future, I expect to see much more local advertising of this "Do-It-Yourself" idea. Many newspapers are afraid to push it for fear of offending the local builders, painters, furniture dealers, and other present advertisers. I, however, believe this to be short sighted because the future of every newspaper and every present advertiser depends ultimately on the growth of the community, which depends on the adoption of all new ideas.

Comforter Cubs Celebrate Scout, Own Organization

The celebration of the 43rd anniversary of the Boy Scout movement and the second anniversary of Cub Pack 15 was held Wednesday evening at the Comforter Hall, with approximately 150 people attending the Blue and Gold banquet featuring Scout Executive George V. Dennis as the speaker of the evening. The invocation was delivered by the Rev. Forrest R. Prindle, pastor of the Reformed Church of the Comforter, sponsoring organization of Pack 15.

Following the banquet, arranged by Den Mother Ann Gibbs and Edith DeWitt with the assistance of the pack committee and mothers of the Cub Scouts, Richard W. Stillings, toastmaster, introduced Pack Committee Chairman Howard A. DeWitt who traced the progress of the Cub Pack during the year and expressed his appreciation to committee members and parents "whose cooperation had made the year a success." Neighborhood Commissioner Edward Leudtke also spoke briefly concerning the past year's record of Pack 15.

Scout Commissioner Robert Tremper, known to the Cub Scouts as "Uncle Stumpy," led the entire group in various games and songs and was "loudly received" by the Cub Scouts. Den mothers, den dads, and pack committeemen were called upon by Toastmaster Stillings to be recognized and were applauded by the assemblage.

Speaks on Progress

The flag ceremony for the evening was conducted by Den 5, Mrs. Betty Freer, den mother, and then an impressive induction ceremony was performed by the Cubmaster to receive Daniel W. Scully into the membership of Pack 15, Den 4.

Cubmaster Henry P. Eighmey spoke briefly concerning pack progress during the year, emphasizing the activity of the den mothers, den dads, and den chiefs who cooperated to make the program one that would be acceptable to the Cub Scouts. He read an excerpt from a survey made of Pack 15 one year previous, in which the assertion was made that the pack could become the leading unit of its kind in the Rip Van Winkle Council—"and today I believe we hold that position," he said. The Cubmaster also paid tribute to District Commissioner Leudtke and Scout Executive Dennis as "the men behind the scenes who were always ready with advice and help to guide the destinies of Pack 15." Mrs. Winifred Nickerson, retiring den mother, was awarded the Certificate of Recognition for her service to the Pack.

Awards Are Given

Assistant Cubmaster Philip H. Gillen made the awards for the month, including the parent-attendance pennant to Den 5 for the highest percentage of parents present at the banquet. The following Cub Scouts received awards: Den 1: Daniel Landi, silver arrow; Den: 2 James Connelly, silver arrow, Terry Kalish, silver arrow, John Gillen, silver arrow, Charles Rion, silver arrow, Karl Glotzl, silver arrow; Den 3: Keith Winne, bear badge, William Bodenweber, three silver arrows; William Hart, gold arrow, Harold Hart, silver arrow, Richard Harbig, gold arrow; Den 4: Roger Nickerson, lion badge, Charles Hill, denner's stripe, Charles Baxter, assistant denner's stripe; Den 5: Robert Gillen, silver arrow, Bruce Freer, silver arrow. Cubmaster Henry P. Eighmey and Den Mother Betty Eighmey were awarded one year service stars.

Scout Executive George V. Dennis spoke concerning the record of Pack 15 during the year and emphasized the idea of cooperative effort being essential to the success of the Cub Scouting program —pointing out that participants in a program should both receive benefits and give of their talents to insure the maximum results.

The Blue and Gold banquet was closed with a grand cheer by the Cub Scouts in appreciation of the efforts of the committee in the presentation of the evening's program.

THE GREATEST
BUICK
IN 50 GREAT YEARS

THE getaway of any 1953 Buick—SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER—is, in one word, dazzling.

Two things account for this. First: increased horsepowers and compression ratios. Second: Buick's new Twin-Turbine Dynaflow Drive.*

In every SUPER and ROADMASTER for 1953 is a new kind of V8 Engine—the first Fireball V8—and the world's most advanced V8, first in any passenger car to reach 8.5 to 1 compression. In every SPECIAL is a newly designed F-263 Fireball 8 Engine with the highest horsepower and compression ever offered in this Series.

To get fullest benefit from these brilliant engines, Buick engineers designed a new Dynaflow with two turbines instead of one.

Result: flash-fast getaway—less sound--and improved efficiency—added to the infinite smoothness of this power transfer. Getaway that brings the 1953 Buick SPECIAL up to 30 mph in fewer seconds than the mighty 1952 ROADMASTER.

But these Golden Anniversary Buicks put you way ahead in more than time and distance.

You're way out front in style, in comfort, in ride, in handling ease—and, very definitely, in value.

We'd like to prove that to you—while you're sampling any one of the greatest Buicks in fifty great years. Why not drop in this week?

Y.M.C.A. News

After checking past records General Secretary Burton S. Tandy estimated this week that Roland Gray was the 170,000th person to use the facilities of the YMCA Youth Center since its opening in February, 1944.

Roland, who lives at 58 Tubby street, is a student at Kingston High School where he plays football and plans to go out for track.

Also on hand was Pete Peters who happened to drop in after an absence of almost three years. Pete used to live in Kingston but is now in the South and came up hoping to see Chick Corell, the former boy's work secretary who is now general secretary of a YMCA in Pennsylvania. Pete was a regular Kingston YMCA member and has attended many other Ys throughout the country.

Group Visits Point

Over 70 boys were able to make the YMCA trip to West Point last Saturday afternoon to see the Harvard - West Point basketball game. The group left the Y at noon by Acker bus and a private car owned by W. L. Burnett of DeWitt Lake. The boys arrived at the Point in fine spirits at 1:15 p. m. and had plenty of time to look it over before the basketball game between Harvard and West Point. Ed Weaver, former Kingston YMCA member, played the forward position as No. 37 on the West Point team. Harvard led by a few points at half time.

In the second half Weaver scored several points with his famous one hand throw. Toward the end of the fourth quarter Harvard and Army were tied 68-68. Army won the game 79-76.

Boys See Boxing Matches

The members of the boys division had a chance to watch eight boxing matches between Army and the University of Maryland after the basketball game. Maryland University took top honors by winning all of them except one.

The members of the YMCA's boys division soon had their own impromptu track meets going and a dozen were able to get into the West Point field house's lacrosse court for a little game of their own. Some had a good time examining the army tanks stationed at the Point before the main events began. After making sure that all West Point personnel had been accounted for and that the tanks were still in good condition and present, the boys piled into the Acker bus and took off for Kingston. Due to the excitement of the day the journey home was a little rough on the boys as well as the bus. The next trip will probably be to Niagara Falls.

That evening the YMCA held its regular Saturday night dance in the Youth Center with Jim Goines and his orchestra presiding and featuring the talented and popular pianist Dale Natoli. A contest was held by Jim Goines to see who could present the best name for his band. Over 100 names were submitted and the contest was won by Gerry Souers, better known as "Pickles" to his Kingston High classmates, who also received a $5 bill from Jim for his winning name. Henceforth Jim Goines and his orchestra will be known as the Royal Aces. As usual there will be dancing and music by the Royal Aces in the YMCA Youth Center this Saturday evening. The Friday Niters will also hold their regular dance this Friday night.

Attend Hi-Y Meeting

On Monday the Kingston Hi-Y, Bookwalter chapter, went to the Newburgh YMCA to take part in a Hi-Y Playday held there. Hi-Ys from all over the mid-Hudson area attended the activities which were under the direction of Pet Starmer, Newburgh YMCA's boy's work secretary. More than 150 boys and girls from six different YMCAS and YWCAs participated.

Among the activities were tournaments in checkers, ping-pong, pool, bowling, and the basketball free throw, followed by a coed splash party in the Newburgh YMCA pool. Lee Herrington gave a good account of himself in the checker tournament.

That evening the MJM-YMCA VanIngen Club held a movie party attended by 30 boys and girls. After seeing the movies there was dancing for all with refreshments supplied by Ketterer's Bakery.

Youth Problems Discussed

Tuesday mornnig the YMCA youth director met with the Kingston Ministerial Association to discuss the prevalence of drinking and gambling in Kingston. These problems were discussed at length and several resolutions and a program for action was passed. The meeting, which was ably chaired by Dr. Huston of the St. James Methodist Church, also spent time in exploring possibilities of cooperation with the radio and press of Kingston in the matter of church and YMCA public relations. A radio institute has been scheduled by the Ministerial Association for March 24.

Tuesday night, after Kingston high trounced Newburgh in their annual basketball game, not less than 200 boys and girls jubilantly poured into the YMCA's Youth Center to attend the post-basketball game dance sponsored by the Bookwalter Hi-Y Chapter. The winning Kingston players were hoisted on the shoulders of their classmates and carried around the Youth Center to the cheers of their classmates. It was a great night for Kingston High at the Y.

The regularly scheduled swimming class for members of the Y boy's division will be held in the YMCA'S swimming pool at 4 p. m. today.

Many boys and men have been joining the Kingston YMCA. New YMCA members in the boy's division include the following James Ploss, James Russel, Andrew Lord, William Pretsch, Vincent Pretsch, Walter Harder, Robert Guldy, Raymond Radel, Leonard Copp and Paul Gardner.

Members of a committee headed by S. Kelso Sloan gave a report on research gathered to determine the feasibility of a Community Chest program in Wallkill at a regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Monday evening at the Wallkill Central School.

Committee members Harold H. Titus and C. Everett Terwilliger also spoke on the subject. The group were of the opinion that while it had merits, the plan required a complete organization if it was to be successful.

The committee, through its study of the program, determined that much hard work and thought must be given to the organization of a Red Feather program and there was some concern as to whether it could be set up to conform to a small community. Research indicated that Community Chests have been successful in large communities. In fact only 10 of the larger cities in the state are without them.

As a result of the fine report President Daniel Van Alst directed Acting Secretary George Vogel to contact representatives of the various organizations in the community inviting them to meet with the Chamber at its next meeting when the committee would again report.

To sum up the Monday evening report it was determined by the committee and Chamber members that if a Community Chest was instituted probably more funds would be contributed to charities and soliciting groups "but you get more for what you give."

Reports were also heard concerning the continuation of promotion folders which the Chamber distributes throughout the nation and even abroad for the purpose of promoting the area as a vacationland together with its other natural attributes. Further discussion and plans will be held concerning the folders at the next regular meeting.

Thought was given to adding two wings to the War Memorial in Wallkill Park wherein the names of World War 2 and Korean conflict heroes would be inscribed in bronze. Local Ministerial Group Meeting

The following account of a recent meeting of the Kingston Ministerial Association was prepared by a member of the association for publication:

At a meeting of the Kingston Ministerial Association in the YMCA, it was announced by the Radio Committee that the period of 8:20-8:30 a. m. would no longer be available for use by the association for their morning devotions which have been a part of the regular broadcast program for many years. The station has offered the association alternate times of 2:45-3 p. m. or 10:45-11 p. m. in the evening, Monday through Friday. However, because of the limited audiences then available, and the break in the continuity that has been established, it was felt that protest should be made in the form of a listener response to this move, thus evidencing the great place this program has won in the hearts of the people. It was voted to ask the listeners to record their protest to this move through the Radio Committee of which the Rev. William McVey is the chairman.

The Rev. Mr. McVey reported for the Provisional Committee of Christian Teaching Committee which is to be held during the last week in September. Contracts are being made for the member churches participation and preliminary plans hope to be completed by April 5. Rabbi Bloom reported that Temple Emmanuel will celebrate their 100th Anniversary on May 22 and extended a cordial invitation to all to participate in their services. He also reported on a Brotherhood meeting that was held in the Jewish Community Center on Feb. 15. As a result of this meeting a provisional Committee on Community Relations is being organized by laymen representing various faiths.

The Rev. Lars Lillestolen, chairman of Social Action Committee, brought up three matters for consideration and study.

A matter of great interest and concern of the association is the number of reports that have been made concerning the sale of liquor to minors by many of the taverns and inns of Kingston and vicinity. Also in connection with this an investigation is to be made of the reported questionable entertainment in several of the clubs that are frequented by young people. Stressing the moral obligation of the church, Pastor Lillestolen added, we also need to be brought to an awareness of the rise of various forms of gambling that are on the rise, Kingston being no exception. The committee will bring in an extensive report at the next meeting.

Due to the absence of the president, the Rev. Ivan Gosso, the meeting was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Ralph Houston.

Congressman Elston said: "He has had three courses of training. They trained him for weather, spent a lot of money on him. Congressman Elston said they still were unable to run down a report that Secretary Stimson wrote Mrs. Roosevelt that he was ordering Lash to be commissioned and that Stimson said he was doing this for President Roosevelt.

"What's up, Mac? What're they doing?"

It happens to everybody. You. You walk down the street, see a crowd, join it, and watch some strange goings-on. Then you tap somebody on the shoulder and ask what's up—even though you can see what's up with your own eyes.

Chances are that he doesn't know what's going on any more than you do. Chances are he'll have to get a newspaper to find out —just as you will.

Then, for the first time, you'll discover that the firemen on the ladder were trying to reach a young man who had escaped from the police and climbed a pole.

It's great to be on the spot at a football game . . . or political gathering . . . or hear and see any burst of excitement. It stimulates your appetite for the whole story.

But being on the spot is not much better than seeing one or two photographs of the action, or seeing a headline about it.

All of these can whet your appetite for news, but they cannot satisfy your hunger for the whole story.

• This goes for advertising, too. The brief message that hangs in the air . . . or brief headlines here or there . . . may indeed have a momentary interest.

But the newspaper ad carries the brass-tacks quality, the urgency of the newspaper itself.

Like a news item, the ad can be examined and re-examined. Can be read any time. Anywhere. Can be clipped and carried in a pocketbook.

And just as the newspaper speaks the special language of the town it mirrors, the ads themselves have the same important local quality. No other medium can match this quality.

Add to all this the fact that the newspaper reaches just about everybody in town, not just fractions of audiences, and you know why the newspaper is the nation's most effective advertising medium.

No wonder advertisers—both retail and national—invest more money in newspapers than in any other form of advertising.

The newspaper is always "first with the most"

After checking past records General Secretary Burton S. Tandy estimated this week that Roland Gray was the 170,000th person to use the facilities of the YMCA Youth Center since its opening in February, 1944.

Roland, who lives at 58 Tubby street, is a student at Kingston High School where he plays football and plans to go out for track.

Also on hand was Pete Peters who happened to drop in after an absence of almost three years. Pete used to live in Kingston but is now in the South and came up hoping to see Chick Corell, the former boy's work secretary who is now general secretary of a YMCA in Pennsylvania. Pete was a regular Kingston YMCA member and has attended many other Ys throughout the country.

Group Visits Point

Over 70 boys were able to make the YMCA trip to West Point last Saturday afternoon to see the Harvard - West Point basketball game. The group left the Y at noon by Acker bus and a private car owned by W. L. Burnett of DeWitt Lake. The boys arrived at the Point in fine spirits at 1:15 p. m. and had plenty of time to look it over before the basketball game between Harvard and West Point. Ed Weaver, former Kingston YMCA member, played the forward position as No. 37 on the West Point team. Harvard led by a few points at half time.

In the second half Weaver scored several points with his famous one hand throw. Toward the end of the fourth quarter Harvard and Army were tied 68-68. Army won the game 79-76.

Boys See Boxing Matches

The members of the boys division had a chance to watch eight boxing matches between Army and the University of Maryland after the basketball game. Maryland University took top honors by winning all of them except one.

The members of the YMCA's boys division soon had their own impromptu track meets going and a dozen were able to get into the West Point field house's lacrosse court for a little game of their own. Some had a good time examining the army tanks stationed at the Point before the main events began. After making sure that all West Point personnel had been accounted for and that the tanks were still in good condition and present, the boys piled into the Acker bus and took off for Kingston. Due to the excitement of the day the journey home was a little rough on the boys as well as the bus. The next trip will probably be to Niagara Falls.

That evening the YMCA held its regular Saturday night dance in the Youth Center with Jim Goines and his orchestra presiding and featuring the talented and popular pianist Dale Natoli. A contest was held by Jim Goines to see who could present the best name for his band. Over 100 names were submitted and the contest was won by Gerry Souers, better known as "Pickles" to his Kingston High classmates, who also received a $5 bill from Jim for his winning name. Henceforth Jim Goines and his orchestra will be known as the Royal Aces. As usual there will be dancing and music by the Royal Aces in the YMCA Youth Center this Saturday evening. The Friday Niters will also hold their regular dance this Friday night.

Attend Hi-Y Meeting

On Monday the Kingston Hi-Y, Bookwalter chapter, went to the Newburgh YMCA to take part in a Hi-Y Playday held there. Hi-Ys from all over the mid-Hudson area attended the activities which were under the direction of Pet Starmer, Newburgh YMCA's boy's work secretary. More than 150 boys and girls from six different YMCAS and YWCAs participated.

Among the activities were tournaments in checkers, ping-pong, pool, bowling, and the basketball free throw, followed by a coed splash party in the Newburgh YMCA pool. Lee Herrington gave a good account of himself in the checker tournament.

That evening the MJM-YMCA VanIngen Club held a movie party attended by 30 boys and girls. After seeing the movies there was dancing for all with refreshments supplied by Ketterer's Bakery.

Youth Problems Discussed

Tuesday mornnig the YMCA youth director met with the Kingston Ministerial Association to discuss the prevalence of drinking and gambling in Kingston. These problems were discussed at length and several resolutions and a program for action was passed. The meeting, which was ably chaired by Dr. Huston of the St. James Methodist Church, also spent time in exploring possibilities of cooperation with the radio and press of Kingston in the matter of church and YMCA public relations. A radio institute has been scheduled by the Ministerial Association for March 24.

Tuesday night, after Kingston high trounced Newburgh in their annual basketball game, not less than 200 boys and girls jubilantly poured into the YMCA's Youth Center to attend the post-basketball game dance sponsored by the Bookwalter Hi-Y Chapter. The winning Kingston players were hoisted on the shoulders of their classmates and carried around the Youth Center to the cheers of their classmates. It was a great night for Kingston High at the Y.

The regularly scheduled swimming class for members of the Y boy's division will be held in the YMCA'S swimming pool at 4 p. m. today.

Many boys and men have been joining the Kingston YMCA. New YMCA members in the boy's division include the following James Ploss, James Russel, Andrew Lord, William Pretsch, Vincent Pretsch, Walter Harder, Robert Guldy, Raymond Radel, Leonard Copp and Paul Gardner.

Members of a committee headed by S. Kelso Sloan gave a report on research gathered to determine the feasibility of a Community Chest program in Wallkill at a regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Monday evening at the Wallkill Central School.

Committee members Harold H. Titus and C. Everett Terwilliger also spoke on the subject. The group were of the opinion that while it had merits, the plan required a complete organization if it was to be successful.

The committee, through its study of the program, determined that much hard work and thought must be given to the organization of a Red Feather program and there was some concern as to whether it could be set up to conform to a small community. Research indicated that Community Chests have been successful in large communities. In fact only 10 of the larger cities in the state are without them.

As a result of the fine report President Daniel Van Alst directed Acting Secretary George Vogel to contact representatives of the various organizations in the community inviting them to meet with the Chamber at its next meeting when the committee would again report.

To sum up the Monday evening report it was determined by the committee and Chamber members that if a Community Chest was instituted probably more funds would be contributed to charities and soliciting groups "but you get more for what you give."

Reports were also heard concerning the continuation of promotion folders which the Chamber distributes throughout the nation and even abroad for the purpose of promoting the area as a vacationland together with its other natural attributes. Further discussion and plans will be held concerning the folders at the next regular meeting.

Local Ministerial Group Meeting

The following account of a recent meeting of the Kingston Ministerial Association was prepared by a member of the association for publication:

At a meeting of the Kingston Ministerial Association in the YMCA, it was announced by the Radio Committee that the period of 8:20-8:30 a. m. would no longer be available for use by the association for their morning devotions which have been a part of the regular broadcast program for many years. The station has offered the association alternate times of 2:45-3 p. m. or 10:45-11 p. m. in the evening, Monday through Friday. However, because of the limited audiences then available, and the break in the continuity that has been established, it was felt that protest should be made in the form of a listener response to this move, thus evidencing the great place this program has won in the hearts of the people. It was voted to ask the listeners to record their protest to this move through the Radio Committee of which the Rev. William McVey is the chairman.

The Rev. Mr. McVey reported for the Provisional Committee of Christian Teaching Committee which is to be held during the last week in September. Contracts are being made for the member churches participation and preliminary plans hope to be completed by April 5. Rabbi Bloom reported that Temple Emmanuel will celebrate their 100th Anniversary on May 22 and extended a cordial invitation to all to participate in their services. The committee will bring in an extensive report at the next meeting.

Due to the absence of the president, the Rev. Ivan Gosso, the meeting was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Ralph Houston.

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Social Security Office, submits another article on the provisions of the Social Security Law:

In the November elections approximately 60 million people cast ballots in what proved to be the biggest vote in history. At first glance, the number of citizens from every walk of life who exercised the fundamental American privilege to select their representatives in government seems an overwhelming figure, but the number falls far short of the 66½ million people, for example, who are now insured under the largest insurance company in the world, the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance.

Nearly 25 million of these workers now have a permanently insured status under the social security program. They comprise more than one-third of all workers fully insured under the law. While the other two-thirds will need additional work to maintain their fully insured status after mid-1954, the permanently insured and their dependents can qualify for benefits regardless of any future covered work by the family breadwinner.

These figures mean that four out of every five self-employed persons are affected by the old-age and survivors insurance program. Consequently, every community in the nation is strengthened against its inhabitants loss of earned income due to a family's breadwinner's old-age or death. Monthly benefit payments under social security will partially offset such losses.

In discussing social security, the first question that arises is "How do I become insured?" All wages paid employes working on jobs covered by the Social Security Law are reported to the government by the four million employers reporting taxable wages at the end of each three-month period during the year. If the worker has been paid at least $50 in wages of each three-month period, he is credited with a quarter of coverage. The number of quarters in which one must work to become insured depends upon how soon he will reach 65 years of age. In the case of self-employed persons, however, only one report yearly is necessary. The net earnings are reported and the tax is paid at the end of the year when the individual files his income tax return.

Today, anyone nearing 65 needs only six quarters of coverage, about a year and a half of work covered by the law, to become insured and entitled to retirement payments. The quarters of coverage necessary to qualify for payments may be earned in covered employment at any time after 1936 and 40 quarters of coverage is the most any person needs regardless of his age. In most cases a worker is insured if he works about six months out of every year until he has acquired 40 quarters or attains age 65, whichever first occurs. The following table shows how many quarters of coverage you need to be fully insured at age 65.

The year in which the work is performed has no effect on eligibility for payments, but the amount of the benefit is determined by the regularity of employment or self-employment and the amount of earnings. In any calendar year after 1950, wages up to $3600 can be credited to each worker's social security account. The amount of the benefit is determined by your average monthly earnings.

Prominent Part in Art Controversy

Ivar Evers, 87, of New Paltz (seated, right) who figured many years ago in some of the hottest controversies of "modern" art, visits with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alf Evers of Woodstock, and their son, Christopher.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

By MRS. WILLIAM JAY

Painter Reminisces About Art Career

New Paltz, Feb. 26—Ivar Evers in recalling some of his experiences as an artist said recently that in his younger days he was excluded from The National Academy Art Show for being too modern. They would not allow his pictures to be shown so he had to start an independent show to put his works before the public.

Now times have changed and he thinks he would be too conservative. Another reason he became discouraged from sending his works to exhibitions was that his works were often stolen from the walls. He won a number of prizes at small shows.

In his fight with the Academy, Evars came into disfavor by painting a fake which they accepted and exhibited. It was copied from an old German fairy tale and entered under the name of John Ellis, his pen name. He also had one of his own accepted. At this time he made a tremendous hit as a writer on art against the Academy. His articles appeared in The Sun and The Herald. It was this action which resulted in his exclusion from the Academy.

Had Cartoons Published

He has had several one-man shows in New York and has exhibited in the Chicago Art Institute shows. Using his pen name, John Ellis, he has had cartoons published in Life and Judge.

Among his many instructors, Twachman, an impressionist, was his favorite. Evers said that he was one of Twachman's favorite pupils. He also studied under George B. Bridgman. His first instructor was Napoleon Caesar in Sweden. Evers has not always been an artist, having been apprenticed to a pastry maker in Sweden at the age of 14. His father had three sons and two daughters, favoring the girls, explaining there had been too many gentlemen in the family.

Made Pastries for Royalty

He put his sons out to work early. Young Evers became so expert by the age of 18 that he was making the pastries for royalty. When Evers was 18 the Prince of Wales who became Edward VI of England came to visit King Oscar II and Queen Sofia of Nassau in Sweden. The pastries for that luncheon were made by the 18-year-old apprentice.

His interest began to turn to art however and by the time he was 20 he was enrolled in an art school in Sweden. From the school he went to work in an architect's office. He came to the United States in 1888 with a brother to join relatives in Brooklyn, going to work immediately as an architectural draftsman in a New York office at the age of 22. He became a student at the Art Students League where he studied for three or four years.

Painting and architectural design, perspective work on interiors became his life. He designed a Roman Catholic church for a Connecticut town which was never built due to lack of funds.

Came Here in 1918

It was in 1918 that Evers came to New Paltz and purchased the Abraham Hasbrouck old stone house on Huguenot street where he now lives. He spent a few years in New Paltz but went back to New York to do structural work. After which he returned to reside in New Paltz. Evers said that most of his paintings purchased in recent years have been bought by art teachers. He is listed in Artist Manuals.

The paintings which he will show at the Winter Art Show opening Sunday at the State Teachers College will cover all of his painting career. He paints in oil and water color. The latest is one begun several years ago and finished this winter. It is a water color of the Half Moon Farm on the Kingston road. It shows the many buildings and the cemetery for prize pigs which were raised on the farm. Evers still paints but at 87 does not go about much.

Art Association Show Will Open on March 1

New Paltz, Feb. 27—The annual winter art show of the New Paltz Art Association will open Sunday, March 1, with a tea from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. It will be held in the first floor corridor of the main building of the New Paltz State Teachers College. The public is invited to attend. The paintings will remain on exhibition until March 15.

There are 60 members of the association. Each member will be limited to three pictures. Oils and water color and pastels are the media in which most artists work. All styles of painting will be represented. Works from beginners to instructors will be included. Non objective, portraits, still life, landscapes and marines are expected to make a well-rounded show. A special feature will be a retrospective show by Ivar Evers, a well known local artist.

Larry Argio of the college art department will be in charge of the hanging committee. His coworkers will be Robert Longfield, Art Kurtz, Paul Kurtz, Mrs. Vira Atkins, Mrs. Elaine Kniffen and Mrs. Ann Rolling. Pictures must be at the college before 10 a. m. on Saturday, Feb. 28. If you take your paintings in before Saturday leave them with Miss Saunders in the social room.

Miss Edith Holt who is tea chairman has named as her committee Miss Jennie L. Dunn, Mrs. Kathryn Weller, Mrs. Vincent Lyons, Miss Theresa Abruzzi, Miss Myra Gerard, Mrs. Howard Hoffman and Miss Elaine Kniffen.

Homes Being Built On Millrock Road

New Paltz, Feb. 27 — Millrock road has been extended and is the scene of home expansion in New Paltz. The street has been extended the length of North Manheim which is parallel to it one block east of Millrock. The road is deep in mud with the recent thaws but trucks are traveling over it to two building sites where dwellings are going up. Titus of Walden is constructing two new homes which will be for sale on the west side of the road. The four new homes built last summer by Shulte on Oakwood terrace are below those Titus is building.

On the west side of Millrock Sarno has built two new homes beyond the one which Mrs. Jack La Falce recently bought, next to Keator. Sarno is occupying one of the new homes and the other is for sale. This section is located well within the village yet is entirely new. Power lines are installed and water lines are laid but the sewer line does not extend any farther north than the La Falce property. The road had been surfaced for a part of the Millrock extension by the village but had to be opened to lay the water main.

New Paltz is growing in other areas also. A new street east of the high school football field is being rapidly filled with new homes and the shape and size of the village is changing steadily.

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Social Security Office, submits another article on the provisions of the Social Security Law:

In the November elections approximately 60 million people cast ballots in what proved to be the biggest vote in history. At first glance, the number of citizens from every walk of life who exercised the fundamental American privilege to select their representatives in government seems an overwhelming figure, but the number falls far short of the 66½ million people, for example, who are now insured under the largest insurance company in the world, the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance.

Nearly 25 million of these workers now have a permanently insured status under the social security program. They comprise more than one-third of all workers fully insured under the law. While the other two-thirds will need additional work to maintain their fully insured status after mid-1954, the permanently insured and their dependents can qualify for benefits regardless of any future covered work by the family breadwinner.

These figures mean that four out of every five self-employed persons are affected by the old-age and survivors insurance program. Consequently, every community in the nation is strengthened against its inhabitants loss of earned income due to a family's breadwinner's old-age or death. Monthly benefit payments under social security will partially offset such losses.

In discussing social security, the first question that arises is "How do I become insured?" All wages paid employes working on jobs covered by the Social Security Law are reported to the government by the four million employers reporting taxable wages at the end of each three-month period during the year. If the worker has been paid at least $50 in wages of each three-month period, he is credited with a quarter of coverage. The number of quarters in which one must work to become insured depends upon how soon he will reach 65 years of age. In the case of self-employed persons, however, only one report yearly is necessary. The net earnings are reported and the tax is paid at the end of the year when the individual files his income tax return.

Today, anyone nearing 65 needs only six quarters of coverage, about a year and a half of work covered by the law, to become insured and entitled to retirement payments. The quarters of coverage necessary to qualify for payments may be earned in covered employment at any time after 1936 and 40 quarters of coverage is the most any person needs regardless of his age. In most cases a worker is insured if he works about six months out of every year until he has acquired 40 quarters or attains age 65, whichever first occurs. The following table shows how many quarters of coverage you need to be fully insured at age 65.

Judicial Magic

Six young housewives living in the same apartment building in Chicago fell into a dispute of such magnitude that it resulted in their being called into court. When their case was called, they all made a concerted rush for the bench and reaching it, all broke into bitter complaints at the same moment.

The judge sat momentarily stunned, as charges and counter-charges filled the air. Suddenly he rapped for order. Then the magistrate said patiently, "Now, I'll hear the oldest first."

That closed the case.

Gracie—Oh, George! If we only had the grand piano with us!

Now take all the conceit out of a man, and what is left is about as useful as an umbrella with all its ribs gone.

TO OUR GAS CUSTOMERS -- We have submitted slightly increased rates for Natural Gas to the New York State Public Service Commission which will become effective May 26, 1953, if approved. There are a number of reasons why this step is necessary:

ONE REASON

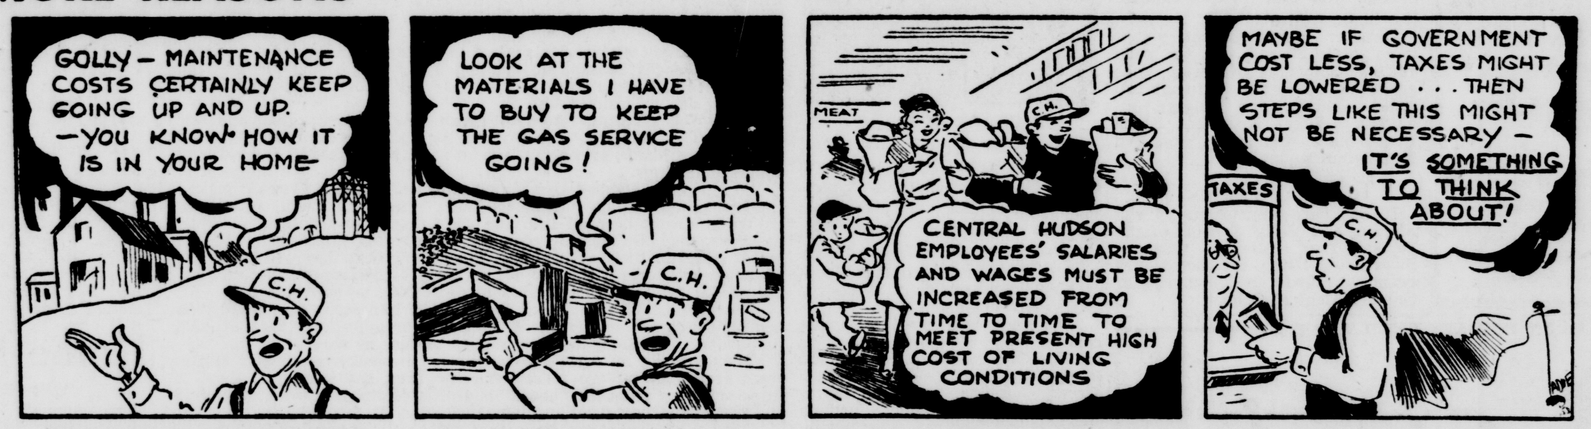

Natural Gas consumed locally comes from producing fields in Texas. Producers want more for their gas.

Natural Gas is carried across country by "big inch" pipeline companies who buy gas from the producers at the fields.

Central Hudson buys Natural Gas from the Columbia Gas System for local distribution in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

MORE REASONS

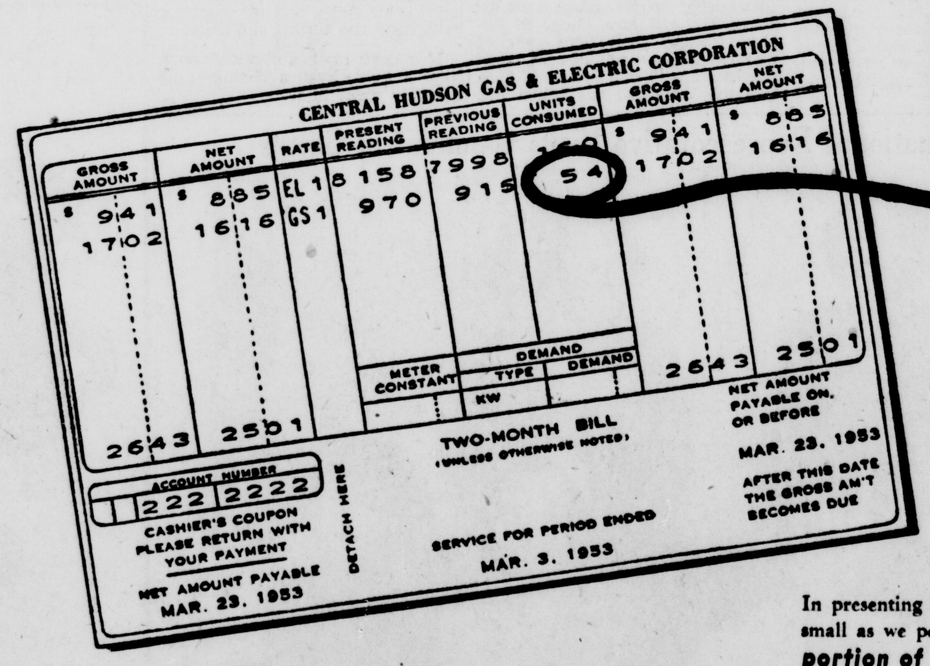

While most gas distributed in this area is Natural Gas, still, Central Hudson maintains stand-by equipment available to manufacture gas should pipelines fail.

Since first Natural Gas was introduced in this area, the cost of supplies to maintain service has substantially increased.

Company employees are no different than you. They have to feed, house and otherwise maintain their families. In these times, an occasional increase in pay helps out.

Approximately 19¢ out of every dollar you paid us in 1952 went to local, state and federal governments in the form of direct taxes. In 1951 it was 16¢!

WHAT THIS INCREASE MEANS TO YOU

Reproduced here is a sample TWO MONTH bill. This customer used 54 units of gas. The price of gas would be increased 1c per unit plus 6c additional initial charge.

54 units of gas
1c increase per unit

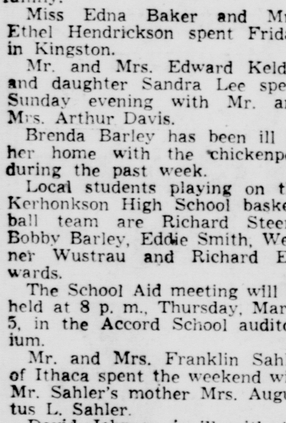

54c
6c increase in initial charge

60c AMOUNT OF INCREASE IN THIS TWO-MONTH BILL

(The above calculation applies to all customers using over 2 units—200 cubic feet—per month. For customers using under 200 cubic feet per month the charge will be increased 5c per month—10c in a TWO MONTH period).

In presenting this increase to the Public Service Commission we have made it as small as we possibly can. The increase would apply only to the gas portion of your bill. If granted, we feel that each small additional amount asked of individual customers, plus the economies already put into effect, will help to offset the increased costs we face and aid in maintaining the high standard of gas service you have come to expect.

Committee Duties Outlined at Home For Aged Meeting

The Board of Managers, Home for the Aged, met Thursday afternoon at the Home, when the duties of the various committees were outlined by the chairmen. Mrs. B. H. Matteson of New Paltz, newly elected president, conducted the meeting.

Consisting of 24 women, the Board supervises the management of the Home in matters particularly concerning the general housekeeping and well being of the guests, explained Mrs. Matteson. Another group, known as the Board of Directors, supervises the Home's finances.

Mrs. Donald Lane, chairman of the visiting committee, reported on that committee's activities. The guests are visited frequently and committee members accept responsibility for their comfort. In her report following a recent call, Mrs. Lane said that complete harmony was found amongst the guests, who were unanimous in their enthusiasm for the life enjoyed there.

As chairman of the house and purchasing committee, Mrs. Stanley Matthews informed those present that her group inspects equipment and when necessary recommends the purchase of new articles.

The entertainment committee told of the numerous functions given at the Home during the month which were enjoyed by the guests.

It was explained to the new board members that dues paid by associate members are used by the Good Cheer Committee for special purchases, food for special parties, and other items which add to the guests' comfort and well-being.

Associate membership now totals 104. Members of the board are selected from the associate group. Any person interested in the work, is eligible for membership.

The director and matron, Mr. and Mrs. Irving L. Parks, were commended for the fine spirit existing amongst guests, nurses, and others at the Home, as well as the excellent housekeeping routine followed.

Reports were also submitted by Mrs. Alfred Schmid, treasurer; Mrs. C. P. Rose, recording secretary; and Mrs. W. H. Brigham, corresponding secretary.

American Male Chorus to Present Concerts at KHS

The American Male Chorus will make its first appearance in the city Saturday at 8:15 p. m. in the Kingston High School auditorium with Lewis Bullock as conductor. Other appearances at the high school will include a 3:30 p. m. matinee on Sunday, March 1; Sunday evening at 8:30 o'clock, and Monday, March 2, at 8:15 p. m. No admission is charged. Free tickets may be obtained at the C. E. Wonderly, Montgomery Ward, J. C. Penney and downtown stores. The chorus is sponsored by contributions accepted at concerts.

Of international fame, the Chorus sang for President Eisenhower at the inauguration ceremonies. Beginning in May, the group will make a tour under the auspices of the State Department.

Organized at the end of World War 2, under the direction of Lewis Bullock, then a lieutenant in the 86th Infantry Division, the group gave its first concert in Manila on February 22, 1946. So pleased were General Styler and the other commanding officers, that the chorus was ordered to give concerts throughout the Pacific theatre.

The War Department brought the Chorus to the United States to tour Army hospitals; however, after two concerts the tour was canceled. Recalling General Eisenhower's advice when he heard them, "to sing and live the message of your music," Mr. Bullock asked the men to continue with him as a civilian chorus. Since that time they have appeared in many of the major concert halls in the United States and have come to be recognized as "America's greatest contribution to good ensemble singing."

While in the city, the men are making their headquarters at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The permanent address of the Chorus is 814 Hawley street, Kalamazoo, Mich.

The program and soloists for the concerts will be announced.

Working Mothers Must Learn Not to Take the Office Home

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Every day, from 9 to 5, young Mrs. Bigham works in a big corporation's office. She is one of its most efficient secretaries.

She takes dictation so swiftly that her boss never has to repeat. An expert typist, letters seldom jam up on her. Her file can produce an old invoice at a moment's notice. And the dispatch with which she can dispose of aggressive salesmen is the admiration of all but the salesmen.

As we can imagine, the corporation, which rates her service on the speed with which it is rendered, appreciates young Mrs. Bigham and pays her well for the valuable time she saves.

At 5 o'clock she goes home to Mr. Bigham, five-year-old Mack and her mother. Often she wishes she didn't have to.

For Mack resists his mother's "efficiency." Because she hurries him through his bath, he dwadles interminably over his supper. Unlike an invoice, he objects to the speed with which she tries to file him away in his bed.

On Saturday afternoons, rushed past store windows that fascinate him, he avenges himself by running away and hiding behind apple barrels at the super market. All his parents' efforts to speed Mack up somehow end in a slowdown.

The word "efficiency" does not mean speedy activity. It means "usefulness." Though speedy activity may be useful to big corporations, it is useless to Mack; it teaches him to steal pleasure and entertain revengeful feelings.

So I want to suggest that young mothers like Mrs. Bigham make a conscious effort to leave office efficiency where it belongs at 5 o'clock.

When divers descend into the sea under many pounds of water pressure, they deliberately plan for their return from their artificial water world to their natural one. They know that they will suffer bad physical symptoms if they do not arrange for decompression and gradual readjustment of their bodies to decreasing water pressure.

No diver in his right mind would allow himself to be rushed from his high-pressure environment to a low-pressure one without such preparation. Working mothers should be just as careful.

They are not as careful because the physical symptoms resulting from such rushing are more dramatic than the emotional ones. A diver suffering from the "bends" is a pitiable sight. A working mother suffering from irritation and impatience is just "tired again."

Until we become conscious that we need "decompression" before we return to our real worlds from the work one, we will, of course, continue to be the victims of "emotional bends."

Working mothers often have to struggle with some basic anger at the circumstances which force them to leave their homes. It is helpful to know this so that we can handle the feelings that drive us to rush wildly about our homes at night in the name of "efficiency."

Cookies Please Hubby

Pittsburgh (AP) — Faith and steady cookie baking have kept a Pittsburgh couple happy for 62 years. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar S. McCurdy began their 63rd year of married life in a reminiscent mood not long ago. The 85-year-old Mrs. McCurdy said she has baked five dozen cookies a week for her husband since their marriage in 1890. "The way to hold a man is through his stomach and his heart. Our faith, and my cookies, have done the trick," she claims.

LOCKED DRAWERS IN GUEST ROOM

The following letter from a hostess explains: "Last weekend we had guests stay with us. They occupied the spare room. As I have many things and little place to put them, I keep some of them in a chest of drawers in the spare room. Before our weekend guests arrived, I locked the drawers in which I had my things. My husband saw me do this and almost had a fit, saying that it was an insult to the honesty of our guests. I never thought of it in this way. Your opinion will be appreciated."

As long as they have plenty of space to put their things away in, there would be no objection to locking your possessions. In fact, it spares your guests the annoyance of unnecessarily opening drawers already filled.

Introducing Sister

Dear Mrs. Post: My brother, introducing me to some business associates said, "Mr. Smith, Mr. Brown, may I introduce you to my sister! He did not mention that my name is Mrs. Jones. I say this introduction was inadequate. He says the fact that I am his sister was all that mattered. Which of us is right?

Answer: If you were unmarried, he would be right. But since you are married and have a different name, you are right. To say "my sister" would naturally be taken for granted that your name is the same as his, and they would call you "Miss (Your brother's name)."

Use of Candles

Dear Mrs. Post: I wish you would repeat the directions for using candles, to include what times and on what types of tables.

Answer: Candles are proper whenever and wherever their light is needed. They do not belong on the dining table in the daytime, unless the room is unusually dark.

Obesity Myth Needs To End, Committee At Albany Says

Albany, Feb. 27 (AP) — All the world may love a fat man, but not the Joint Legislative Committee on Problems of the Aging.

"Obesity is the greatest single hazard to human life in the nation today," the committee says in its annual report.

The group says New York state and local health departments, health associations and medical societies should unite against obesity (fatness).

In its report submitted yesterday to the governor and the legislature the committee esimated that about 4½ million New Yorkers were overweight.

"We are losing the battle of the bulge," declared Sen. Thomas C. Desmond, chairman of the committee.

The Newburgh Republican added that "a protruding paunch is the most serious menace confronting those of our citizens 40 years of age and older."

Curtails Life and Vigor

Desmond said that obesity "curtails life, impairs vigor, increases fatiguability, breaks down the liver, increases surgical risks, . . . and is associated with hypertension, arteriosclerosis and heart disease."

"Obesity is no longer a personal problem," he declared. "The myth of the 'jolly fat man' needs to be destroyed. He may feign jollity; he may even be jolly—for a relatively short time. Actually, he is sentencing himself to early death."

Desmond said the death rate was "50 per cent higher for overweights than for others."

All-out community campaigns for better eating habits should be undertaken, he said and added that "group therapy promises to be a help."

"We may need in this country a 'calories anonymous' to aid the compulsive over-eater, the snack-snitcher, the between-meal refrigerator-raider and the individual who drowns his sorrows in desserts," Desmond added.

Desmond, a strapping six-footer with a trim waist line, has no bird-like appetite. Quite often during lengthy Senate debates that run through the lunch hour, Desmond will polish off two or three sandwiches, a piece of fruit and two bottles of milk.

Britain Proposes Move on Sterling

Washington, Feb. 27 (AP)—An informed source said today Britain has laid before the U. S. Government proposals aimed at "real progress" toward making the pound sterling a freely convertible currency.

The proposals, understood to be hedged with various protective devices, would need U. S. approval and cooperation to become effective. As outlined, they would include:

A dollar fund to stabilize the pound, a plan for pegging prices of free world raw materials, and plans for tightening up on inflation in the British Commonwealth to give the pound a firmer value.

The proposals were sent here in advance of next week's visit by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler, the source said. They were described as the heart of talks in which the British hope to lay a foundation for an enduring solution to their economic troubles.

May Be Exchanged

The British pound may now be exchanged for other currencies—converted, that is—only with the consent of the British Government. Free convertibility, strongly urged by present U. S. fiscal leaders, would mean allowing free exchange of the pound, at least in current trade.

Treasury officials tacitly acknowledged advance receipt of the British proposals, but would not discuss them.

One ranking treasury official said, however:

"We have emphasized, and the British have agreed, that these are exploratory, get-acquainted talks of an informal nature, and that there will be no firm or final commitments made."

Climate and Tuberculosis

Not so long ago people thought a change of climate was just the thing they needed to fight off tuberculosis. Even today, some people with active tuberculosis leave their homes for the warm, dry air of the southwest. They hope they will find a magic cure in the air or in the heat of the desert sun. But they won't.

This belief is one of the lingering superstitions about tuberculosis, like the misconception that TB is inherited or "runs in the family." It isn't inherited. You aren't born with tuberculosis. TB is an infectious disease, spread from person to person, from the sick to the well. It sometimes runs in families because one member of the family passes his germs to another.

It is true that TB germs — tubercle bacilli — may be killed by direct exposure to the rays of the sun. But germs inside the lungs are not killed by sunshine on the surface of the body. In some forms of TB, such as tuberculosis of the bones and joints, the sun can be helpful. But in tuberculosis of the lungs, the sun can be harmful. Sun bathing is not recommended for pulmonary tuberculosis patients.

There are other good reasons for not following the will-of-the-wisp of the sun or the mountains in connection with treatment for tuberculosis.

The process of recovering from tuberculosis, under the best conditions, is a long, difficult one. It helps to be in a hospital near your home, since you can then see your family and friends while you are under treatment.

Time and money are both important factors in recovery from TB. The sooner you can enter a tuberculosis hospital the quicker your recovery is likely to be. A long hospital stay costs more money than most people can afford, but every state and many large communities have tuberculosis hospitals supported entirely or principally by tax funds. Since you must be a legal resident of a state to enter a state TB hospital, it is obvious that moving to another state when you are ill will not help. Legal residence requirements vary from state to state, and in parts of the southwest run as high as three years. Why run the risk of being stranded far from home with a serious illness? If you have tuberculosis, the best advice is to enter a sanatorium in your own state.

Gas Tax Increase

Kingston, N. Y.
February 26, 1953

Editor, The Freeman:

The publication of the following in the columns of your paper will be appreciated.

The opportunity given your readers by Senator Wicks to express their stand on the proposed 50% increase of the gasoline tax prior to the passage of a law placing the tax in effect, is so fair to the taxpayers that it should be grasped by everyone.

Under the present trend of state taxation of motor car operators, the medium income owner will be forced off the roads, except for travel of necessity. The taxpayer has so many political cooks, he lacks funds for broth. There is ample state revenue if wisely expended to cover an efficient and economical operation of all necessary government functions. We need lower taxes and less government extravagance.

May I suggest that all of us who oppose the 50% gas tax increase write to our Senator. The interested parties favoring the tax will not fail to support the measure with every means at their command.

The billion dollar budget of our state government is wonderful for the politician, but pretty tough on the people who pay. The time to fight against this gas tax is before it is levied and added to our burdensome budget.

I thank you.

Yours truly,
JOHN W. MATTHEWS

Magistrates Hold Annual Banquet

The annual banquet of Ulster County Magistrates Association was held last night at Rainbow Inn. Seated (l-r) are Harold E. Macholdt, justice of the peace, town of Ulster, president; Howard St. John, Ulster county district attorney; Roger H. Loughran, justice of the peace, town of Hurley, toastmaster; Cluett Schantz, Ulster county sheriff; John B. Sterley, county surrogate; standing, Edward Brodsky, justice of peace, town of Rosendale, vice president of association; Herbert Poppel, justice of peace, town of Wawarsing, secretary and treasurer; George J. Speakers Prefer Justice Courts in Place of Circuits

Speakers at the second annual banquet of the Ulster County Magistrates Association at the Rainbow Inn Thursday night urged a retention of the justice of the peace courts in preference to the establishment of circuit courts.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John told the approximately 60 justices and their guests attending that their organization is in a position to offer a service to the community by seeking legislation to increase the jurisdiction of the justice courts. With most court calendars crowded at present, the district attorney stressed the importance of the "prompt and speedy" action of the justices of the peace, who are on call at all times. He repeated the old adage, "Delayed justice is no justice."

Surrogate Judge John B. Sterley told the group that one of the great dangers today is the over centralization of government. "Let's hope we keep local government," he said.

Cites Jail Angle

Justice Harold Macholdt of the town of Ulster, president of the organization, said that the peace justices are available at all hours for purposes of presiding at the arraignment of accused men, issuing warrants and summonses. Under a circuit court system, accused men might have to wait "seven or eight" days in jail until a circuit judge arrived in the locality for an arraignment.

Justice Roger H. Loughran, toastmaster, termed the justice of the peace courts as "courts of the people." He, as well as Macholdt and others who spoke, urged attendance at the regular meetings of the association, when the justices come together to discuss mutual problems and receive advice on court matters.

Sheriff Cluett Schantz was present and extended his greetings to the justices. A letter was read from Chief Judge John T. Loughran of the state Court of Appeals.

Two Presidents Honored

Justice of the Peace and Mrs. Percy W. Gazlay of Accord, town of Rochester, were congratulated on their 46th wedding anniversary which they were celebrating by attending the banquet.

Obesity Myth Needs To End, Committee At Albany Says

Albany, Feb. 27 (AP) — All the world may love a fat man, but not the Joint Legislative Committee on Problems of the Aging.

"Obesity is the greatest single hazard to human life in the nation today," the committee says in its annual report.

The group says New York state and local health departments, health associations and mediçal societies should unite against obesity (fatness).

In its report submitted yesterday to the governor and the legislature the committee esimated that about 4½ million New Yorkers were overweight.

Curtails Life and Vigor

Desmond said that obesity "curtails life, impairs vigor, increases fatiguability, breaks down the liver, increases surgical risks, * * and is associated with hypertension, arteriosclerosis and heart disease."

"Obesity is no longer a personal problem," he declared. "The myth of the 'jolly fat man' needs to be destroyed. He may feign jollity; he may even be jolly—for a relatively short time. Actually, he is sentencing himself to early death."

Gas Tax Increase

February 26, 1953

Editor, The Freeman:

The publication of the following in the columns of your paper will be appreciated.

The opportunity given your readers by Senator Wicks to express their stand on the proposed 50% increase of the gasoline tax prior to the passage of a law placing the tax in effect, is so fair to the taxpayers that it should be grasped by everyone.

Under the present trend of state taxation of motor car operators, the medium income owner will be forced off the roads, except for travel of necessity. The taxpayer has so many political cooks, he lacks funds for broth. There is ample state revenue if wisely expended to cover an efficient and economical operation of all necessary government functions. We need lower taxes and less government extravagance.

May I suggest that all of us who oppose the 50% gas tax increase write to our Senator. The interested parties favoring the tax will not fail to support the measure with every means at their command.

The billion dollar budget of our state government is wonderful for the politician, but pretty tough on the people who pay. The time to fight against this gas tax is before it is levied and added to our burdensome budget.

I thank you.

Yours truly,
JOHN W. MATTHEWS

Magistrates Hold Annual Banquet

The annual banquet of Ulster County Magistrates Association was held last night at Rainbow Inn. Seated (l-r) are Harold E. Macholdt, justice of the peace, town of Ulster, president; Howard St. John, Ulster county district attorney; Roger H. Loughran, justice of the peace, town of Hurley, toastmaster; Cluett Schantz, Ulster county sheriff; John B. Sterley, county surrogate; standing, Edward Brodsky, justice of peace, town of Rosendale, vice president of association; Herbert Poppel, justice of peace, town of Wawarsing, secretary and treasurer; George J. Speakers Prefer Justice Courts in Place of Circuits

Speakers at the second annual banquet of the Ulster County Magistrates Association at the Rainbow Inn Thursday night urged a retention of the justice of the peace courts in preference to the establishment of circuit courts.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John told the approximately 60 justices and their guests attending that their organization is in a position to offer a service to the community by seeking legislation to increase the jurisdiction of the justice courts. With most court calendars crowded at present, the district attorney stressed the importance of the "prompt and speedy" action of the justices of the peace, who are on call at all times. He repeated the old adage, "Delayed justice is no justice."

Surrogate Judge John B. Sterley told the group that one of the great dangers today is the over centralization of government. "Let's hope we keep local government," he said.

Cites Jail Angle

Justice Harold Macholdt of the town of Ulster, president of the organization, said that the peace justices are available at all hours for purposes of presiding at the arraignment of accused men, issuing warrants and summonses. Under a circuit court system, accused men might have to wait "seven or eight" days in jail until a circuit judge arrived in the locality for an arraignment.

Justice Roger H. Loughran, toastmaster, termed the justice of the peace courts as "courts of the people." He, as well as Macholdt and others who spoke, urged attendance at the regular meetings of the association, when the justices come together to discuss mutual problems and receive advice on court matters.

Sheriff Cluett Schantz was present and extended his greetings to the justices. A letter was read from Chief Judge John T. Loughran of the state Court of Appeals.

Two Presidents Honored

Supervisor Percy Bush of the town of Ulster, first president of the magistrates association, and Justice George J. Braendly of Woodstock, last year's president, were honored for their work on behalf of the association.

Justice of the Peace and Mrs. Percy W. Gazlay of Accord, town of Rochester, were congratulated on their 46th wedding anniversary which they were celebrating by attending the banquet.

Grand Jurors to Meet Monday Night at 8

Chris Gallo Pounds 702 Triple in Ferraro Major League Finale

Shoots First 700 Of Young Career; Joins Navy Monday

Chris Gallo, one of the most promising young bowling stars of the Kingston area, picked an auspicious time Thursday night to shoot his first "700" series of his career.

Scheduled to join the naval branch of the U. S. service next Monday, Gallo proceeded to wind up his civilian bowling career for a few years at least with a sizzling 702 blast.

DeCicco also won the gross all-events prize with a 1924 total. Brady shot 279 pins over his average to win the trophy. (Freeman photo)

Repeat as Doubles Champs

2,961 Team Total Still Leads ABC

Chicago, Feb. 27 (AP)—Sixty open division bowling teams go to the firing line shooting for the elusive 3,000 series and a top berth in the 50th annual ABC in Chicago Coliseum.

Festivities at the gala Golden Jubilee Tournament that has drawn a record number of entries were dampened last night by the death of a Wisconsin bowler shortly after he had rolled 275, the tournament's high game to date.

Hits 610, Dies

Emory Romnek, 48, bowling with Tony's Lefties of Racine, Wis., tossed nine straight strikes in his final team game but spared in the final frame. Romnek, a 180 average bowler in a Racine league, shot 170 and 165 in his first two games for a 610 series.

After picking up his ball and walking towards the bowlers' paddock, Romnek collapsed, he died, apparently of a heart attack less than 45 minutes later despite the efforts of an inhalator squad.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST

DO FISH IDENTIFY HUMAN SCENT...?

MANY ANGLERS BELIEVE THAT NATIVE (NOT HATCHERY RAISED) FISH REGARD MAN'S SCENT WITH SUSPICION AND DANGER. SUCH ANGLERS AVOID USING THEIR BARE HANDS IN WATER TO LAND A FISH WITHOUT A NET OR CLEANING FISH IN THE STREAM WHERE THEY ARE FISHING. THEY SAY THIS CAUSES FISH TO QUIT TAKING. WADING WITHOUT WADERS OR BOOTS IS AVOIDED ALSO. SOME SAY HATCHERY FISH ASSOCIATE FOOD AND SECURITY WITH MAN SCENT SO IT ATTRACTS THEM.

ITS WISE TO CLOAK YOUR PRESENCE FROM FISH WHEN POSSIBLE.

KHS in Beacon Tonight; Middies Here Saturday

Second Place Is Still at Stake

With the two major key points of the 1952-53 DUSO Basketball League definitely settled, conference teams will be merely going through the paces tonight in the last of two regularly scheduled league shifts.

Newburgh Free Academy already has nailed down the league flag for the year and of course everybody knows what happened to Newburgh's 37-game winning streak.

Kingston, however, fired by its win over the Academy cagers, would like nothing better than to keep its hold on second place and the Maroon cagers can do much to accomplish this in a meeting at Beacon tonight.

Home Saturday

The Marons face a sturdy two-day action this weekend. After traveling to Beacon tonight, Coach G. Warren Kias, troupe returns to municipal auditorium for a make-up game Saturday night with Middletown. The varsity game Saturday will start at 8:30 p. m.

Kingston winds up its 1952-53 conference play next Tuesday night with a home game against Monticello.

Second place in the DUSO League could go to any of three teams — Kingston (10-5), Fallsburgh (10-6) or Poughkeepsie (9-6).

Of the three, the schedule perhaps favors Fallsburgh. The Comets tangle with Ellenville at the Ellies' court tonight and then travel to Liberty for the finale next Tuesday. Poughkeepsie engages Newburgh at the Hilly City tonight and meets Beacon at home Tuesday.

Tonight's Schedule

Kingston at Beacon.
Port Jervis at Middletown.
Fallsburgh at Ellenville.
Poughkeepsie at Newburgh.
Monticello at Liberty.

Sellout Predicted For Ez-Layne Bout

San Francisco, Feb. 27 (AP) — Ticket orders for the 10 round fight here April 1 between former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles and Rex Layne are coming in so fast that promoter Jimmy Murray predicted today it would be a 7,200 seat sellout.

The meeting between the two challengers for Rocky Marciano's title will be nationally televised except for a blackout of this area.

One request for 10 tickets was from a customer who wrote he had never seen a fight until television.

"Television is creating hundreds of new fans," Murray said. "They have been watching all of the fights, big and little. When a big one comes along they want to see the fighters in the flesh."

It will be the third battle between the two. Charles scored an eleventh round knockout over Layne in Pittsburgh but lost a 10 round decision to the Lewiston, Utah, swinger more recently in Ogden, Utah.

New Archery Club Target

Two new members of the Kingston Archery Club, Michael Kemlage and Harold Conlin, with his son, Terry, inspect the first new target to be built on the club's new field course at the end of Pearl street extension. The range course will eventually consist of 14 targets. Interested sportsmen are invited to attend the next meeting of the club March 4 at 8:30 p. m. at the Cedar Rest. The club, a member of the New York State Field Archers and the National Field Archery Association, has made plans to invite the New York field archer's championship to the local range in the near future.

Byrne Top Project For Chisox Pilot; Could Mean Flag

(By The Associated Press)

Manager Paul Richards of the Chicago White Sox, the patient president of pitchers anonymous, has tabbed control-wobbly Tommy Byrne as his No. 1 project for 1953.

Richards, who did an effective job of converting Saul Rogovin and Joe Dobson into front line hurlers, is going about the business of correcting some of the southpaw's mound flaws at the White Sox' camp at El Centro, Calif. If he succeeds, Byrne may well spark the Chisox to their first American League pennant since 1919.

"I've had daily sessions with Byrne since we began training," Richards said yesterday. "We're trying to pick out something that might help him—maybe stiffen his delivery or slip a slider into his repertoire."

Byrne, obtained from the St. Louis Browns last fall, always has been on the threshold of success but his wildness kept him from reaching the heights. He won 15 games for the New York Yankees in 1949 and 1950 but slipped to 6-11 with St. Louis in 1951. Last season he won seven and dropped 14.

Fain Likes Chisox

While Richards was working with Byrne, Ferris Fain, Chicago's new first baseman, took time out from his first workout to predict the White Sox will "rip apart the pennant monopoly of the Yankees."

"I believe the White Sox have a fine chance to take the pennant," said the American League's 1952 batting champion. "We'll have one of the best defensive teams and our pitching also will be good. As a line-drive hitter Comiskey Park at Chicago is made to order for me and I should do all right there."

Another pitcher, Joe Coleman, was the big news in the Philadelphia A's camp at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Coleman, hampered by a shoulder ailment the past couple of seasons, reported he was in good shape and ready to help Bobby Shantz, Harry Byrd, Alex Kellner and the rest of Jimmy Dykes' mound corps.

"My shoulder seldom bothers me," he said. "And besides I've learned how to pitch."

Coleman won 14 games in 1948 and 13 the following year. He pitched, without much success, for Ottawa and Savannah in 1952.

Outfielder Archie Wilson of the Boston Red Sox became the first serious casualty of the training season when he pulled a tendon in his left leg while sliding. He will be sidelined for ten days.

Another medical case was reported by the Cincinnati Reds at Tampa. First sacker Ted Kluszewski, out for some time last year with an ankle injury, was spiked on the right hand. His injury is not serious however.

Lemon, Lopat Sign

Bob Lemon of Cleveland and New York's Ed Lopat, two of the American League's top hurlers, came to terms yesterday. Lemon, the first of the Tribe's big three to sign, will receive an estimated $45,000 while Lopat inked a provisional $21,000 contract, dependent on whether his ailing left arm comes around this season.

Two Golfers Hold Two-Stroke Lead In Houston Play

Houston, Feb. 27 (AP)—Cary Middlecoff, a veteran collector of golf prizes, and Al Besselink, who has won only one major tournament, held a two-stroke lead today as the $20,000 Houston Open entered its second round.

Middlecoff played both good and bad golf before climaxing yesterday's opening round with a dramatic 40-foot putt on the 18th green to tie the colorful Besselink with a five-under par 67.

The field of 150 players will be cut to 90, plus ties, after today's 18 holes. Sunday's final round over the 7,150-yard, par 72 Memorial Park course will be limited to the 60 low scorers.

Besselink, who plays out of Grossingers, was under or even with par on every hole. He was so pleased with his 33-34-67 he could find no fault with the muddy fairways and soggy greens.

"It was a great round," he told everyone. "But I almost wore out my number two and three irons because the course is so long."

A professional only three years, Besselink won his first major tournament last year at Sioux City.

Four players were grouped at 70, one stroke behind Ferrier, the big San Franciscan. They were Mike Homa, Rye, Bill Nary, Los Angeles, Glenn Teal, East Amhurst and Bill Trombley, Dallas.

Salas Seeks His Sixth Straight Win Tonight

New York, Feb. 27 (AP)—Lauro Salas, a wade-in fighter, and Pat Marcune, a right hand bomber who likes his opponents to come to him, collide tonight in a Madison Square Garden ten rounder which promises to provide plenty of fireworks.

Told that the former lightweight champion from Mexico would try to "swarm all over" him, Marcune said "that's right up my alley."

"Most of the time I've got to go out and chase guys," the 24-year old Brooklyn featherweight added "it'll be a pleasure to have someone come after me. That's my meat."

Starting at 10 p. m., EST, the bout will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC).

The 24-year old Brooklynite has won his last five fights in a row. Marcune's record is 38-11-2 with 18 kayos. He has been stopped twice, both times in the first round. Johnny Giaco did it in 1949 and Bill Bossio flattened him in '51.

Ford Still Balks

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 27 (AP) —Telephone negotiations between Ed (Whitey) Ford, young Yankee southpaw pitcher recently released from the army, and Assistant General Manager Roy Hamey have resulted in a continued stalemate and he remains as one of the seven players still unsigned. It is believed the Yankees have offered Ford, who had a 9-1 record for the last half of the 1950 season, $9,000 but that he's holding firm for $13,000.

Higher Education for Dogs

By JOE STETSON
Dog Editor

Ben Talmadge has really set about the task of training his retriever with a happy combination of patience and preseverance. His dog was responding well, too, and in a surprisingly short time Ben was around to take me up on my promise to supply him with the know-how for more advanced training.

The dog had been taught to sit in response to a single whistle blast, come in to recall, and understood left and right hand signals. Going deeper for an overhead motion was more difficult for him to comprehend, but it would come in time and Ben was anxious to acquire methods for more advanced work.

"How can I help his depth perception?" he asked. "He seems uncertain as to how far into the field the dummy is thrown."

Depth perception is largely dependent upon a dog's eyesight and upon experience and practice helps a great deal.

Working the dog at different depths in a field with uniform cover may be confusing. Try tossing the dummy short of, to and beyond a tree or a clump of bushes—something that will help the dog to get a relationship. The dog will improve his ability to determine depth in this way.

A very disturbing characteristic is the tendency to work wide of a mark and thus get out of the proper territory completely. If in actual shooting conditions, a fall has been marked by the dog only, it is impossible for the handler to help the dog and the bird may be lost.

When a dog has had a lot of practice working around a clump of bushes, it is a good idea to toss the dummy right into thick cover. This will get the dog accustomed to heavy going.

To give a dog the line, that is to get him headed in the right direction before sending him to a fall he hasn't seen, it is customary to hold or swing the hand, held straight open, in the proper direction. If the dog is facing across the handler he can be straightened out by pushing his head into line with the back of the hand.

If his body doesn't line up, his front feet can be crowded a bit by the handler sliding his foot over, thus lining him up. If he is facing away from the handler, the rear feet can be crowded until he swings into line. Thus he will get started in the right direction.

Incidentally, when your dog is making deliveries from now on, be sure that they are complete. Make him sit when delivering and hold the bird until you take it from him. If he drops it in front of you, step back and command him to fetch until he delivers to hand.

At this stage you must watch out for "freezing". Make certain that nothing you do encourages the dog to hang on to the bird or be reluctant to "give." Freezing is a greater fault than poor delivery and your attempts to obtain a clean cut performance must not be made at the cost of "freezing."

Dressen-O'Neill Feud in Making; Chuck Predicts Flag for Dodgers

Vero Beach, Fla., Feb. 27 (AP)—The beginning of a beautiful feud between Chuck Dressen of Brooklyn and Steve O'Neill of Philadelphia appeared in the making today.

It began when O'Neill, from his training quarters in Clearwater, told newspapermen the National League Champion Dodgers would not repeat because they could not possibly defeat the second division teams 67 times, as they did last year. Steve also said the Giants and Cardinals, as well as his team, would continue to wallop the Brooklyn Bums.

Won't Happen Again

"Brooklyn will never—never, I say—have a year like last year," he predicted. "They beat the second division teams 67 times out of 87 games. That's the first time in all my years in baseball I ever heard of such a thing. It's impossible for Brooklyn to have another year like that. And if they don't where are they?

"And I'll tell you," Steve continued, "they won't beat the Giants and they won't beat us. They won't beat St. Louis too often, either. No sir, I'm not afraid of them one bit."

While Brooklyn was "moidering" the second divisioners, the Giants took 14 of their 22 from the Dodgers; the Phillies won 12 of 22 with the champs and St. Louis split 22 down the middle.

Dressen, at Vero Beach, came back slugging.

"All I know," countered Dressen, "is that Mike Kelly, my old manager at St. Paul, once told me all you've got to do to win a pennant is to break even with the contenders and wallop the daylights out of those second divisioners. That was John McGraw's system and he won more pennants than any other manager, including O'Neill. Furthermore, O'Neill's club had the same chance against the second division teams as we had. As far as I know, the Phils played them the same number of games. Whose fault is it that they couldn't beat 'em like we did?

"I seem to remember another thing. We played the Yankees right down to the final out in the final game before they beat us in the World Series last fall. And what about the Phillies in 1950 against the same Yankees? They haven't dented the plate yet, have they?

Will Beat Roberts

"And if O'Neill wants to know another thing that won't happen again," Dressen said, "you can tell him that Robin Roberts won't beat us six times again as he did last year. Look at some of those scores he beat us—8-4 and 9-3. We're going to have better pitching this year and we're going to win some of those games we lost to Roberts."

"Here's something else that will happen that hasn't happened," he said. "The Dodgers are going to win two pennants in a row. It's been a long time since a National League pennant winner repeated. That's just what we're going to do in '53. Tell that to O'Neill."

Chris Gallo Pounds 702 Triple in Ferraro Major League Finale

Shoots First 700 Of Young Career; Joins Navy Monday

Chris Gallo, one of the most promising young bowling stars of the Kingston area, picked an auspicious time Thursday night to shoot his first "700" series of his career.

Scheduled to join the naval branch of the U. S. service next Monday, Gallo proceeded to wind up his civilian bowling career for a few years at least with a sizzling 702 blast.

Trophy, Singles Winners

Jimmy DeCicco, right, of the Electrol Night League, is the new singles champion of the Kingston Bowling Association, following his 728 gross score rolled at the Bowlodrome last Sunday in the final shift of the KBA's 16th annual city tournament. DeCicco also won the gross all-events prize with a 1924 total. John Brady, left, also of the Electrol Night wheel, won Peter Keresman's trophy for the bowler rolling the highest score over average entered in the tournament. Brady shot 279 pins over his average to win the trophy. (Freeman photo)

Repeat as Doubles Champs

Cliff Quick, left, and Randy Kelder repeated as the doubles champions during the 16th annual Kingston Bowling Association city tournament completed last weekend. The veteran tandem crashed the standing board for a high gross score of 1250 for the money and a high net score of 1217 for the KBA trophy. Quick and Kelder also copped the high team single net score of 438 while Kelder captured President Tom Orr's KBA trophy with a 657 net score in the doubles. (Freeman photo)

2,961 Team Total Still Leads ABC

Chicago, Feb. 27 (AP)—Sixty open division bowling teams go to the firing line shooting for the elusive 3,000 series and a top berth in the 50th annual ABC in Chicago Coliseum.

The top team total of 2,961 by the Minneapolis Howard Sales has withstood the assault of hundreds of teams all week.

Festivities at the gala Golden Jubilee Tournament that has drawn a record number of entries were dampened last night by the death of a Wisconsin bowler shortly after he had rolled 275, the tournament's high game to date.

Hits 610, Dies

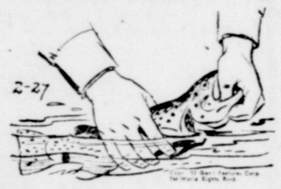

Emory Romnek, 48, bowling with Tony's Lefties of Racine, Wis., tossed nine straight strikes in his final team game but spared in the final frame. Romnek, a 180 average bowler in a Racine league, shot 170 and 165 in his first two games for a 610 series.

After picking up his ball and walking towards the bowlers' paddock, Romnek collapsed, he died, apparently of a heart attack less than 45 minutes later despite the efforts of an inhalator squad.

DO FISH IDENTIFY HUMAN SCENT...?

MANY ANGLERS BELIEVE THAT NATIVE (NOT HATCHERY RAISED) FISH REGARD MAN'S SCENT WITH SUSPICION AND DANGER. SUCH ANGLERS AVOID USING THEIR BARE HANDS IN WATER TO LAND A FISH WITHOUT A NET OR CLEANING FISH IN THE STREAM WHERE THEY ARE FISHING. THEY SAY THIS CAUSES FISH TO QUIT TAKING. WADING WITHOUT WADERS OR BOOTS IS AVOIDED ALSO. SOME SAY HATCHERY FISH ASSOCIATE FOOD AND SECURITY WITH MAN SCENT SO IT ATTRACTS THEM.

IT'S WISE TO CLOAK YOUR PRESENCE FROM FISH WHEN POSSIBLE.

KHS in Beacon Tonight; Middies Here Saturday

Second Place Is Still at Stake

With the two major key points of the 1952-53 DUSO Basketball League definitely settled, conference teams will be merely going through the paces tonight in the last of two regularly scheduled league shifts.

Newburgh Free Academy already has nailed down the league flag for the year and of course everybody knows what happened to Newburgh's 37-game winning streak.

After Kingston supplied the bone-crusher to smother NFA's hope for another unbeaten campaign in that historic affair Tuesday night, there's simply very little left to this year's basketball picture.

Kingston, however, fired by its win over the Academy cagers, would like nothing better than to keep its hold on second place and the Maroon cagers can do much to accomplish this in a meeting at Beacon tonight.

Home Saturday

The Marons face a sturdy two-day action this weekend. After traveling to Beacon tonight, Coach G. Warren Kias, troupe returns to municipal auditorium for a make-up game Saturday night with Middletown. The varsity game Saturday will start at 8:30 p. m.

Kingston winds up its 1952-53 conference play next Tuesday night with a home game against Monticello.

Second place in the DUSO League could go to any of three teams — Kingston (10-5), Fallsburgh (10-6) or Poughkeepsie (9-6).

Of the three, the schedule perhaps favors Fallsburgh. The Comets tangle with Ellenville at the Ellies' court tonight and then travel to Liberty for the finale next Tuesday. Poughkeepsie engages Newburgh at the Hilly City tonight and meets Beacon at home Tuesday.

Tonight's Schedule

Kingston at Beacon.
Port Jervis at Middletown.
Fallsburgh at Ellenville.
Poughkeepsie at Newburgh.
Monticello at Liberty.

Sellout Predicted For Ez-Layne Bout

San Francisco, Feb. 27 (AP) — Ticket orders for the 10 round fight here April 1 between former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles and Rex Layne are coming in so fast that promoter Jimmy Murray predicted today it would be a 7,200 seat sellout.

The meeting between the two challengers for Rocky Marciano's title will be nationally televised except for a blackout of this area.

One request for 10 tickets was from a customer who wrote he had never seen a fight until television.

"Television is creating hundreds of new fans," Murray said. "They have been watching all of the fights, big and little. When a big one comes along they want to see the fighters in the flesh."

It will be the third battle between the two. Charles scored an eleventh round knockout over Layne in Pittsburgh but lost a 10 round decision to the Lewiston, Utah, swinger more recently in Ogden, Utah.

New Archery Club Target

Two new members of the Kingston Archery Club, Michael Kemlage and Harold Conlin, with his son, Terry, inspect the first new target to be built on the club's new field course at the end of Pearl street extension. The range course will eventually consist of 14 targets. Interested sportsmen are invited to attend the next meeting of the club March 4 at 8:30 p. m. at the Cedar Rest. The club, a member of the New York State Field Archers and the National Field Archery Association, has made plans to invite the New York field archer's championship to the local range in the near future.

Byrne Top Project For Chisox Pilot; Could Mean Flag

(By The Associated Press)

Manager Paul Richards of the Chicago White Sox, the patient president of pitchers anonymous, has tabbed control-wobbly Tommy Byrne as his No. 1 project for 1953.

Richards, who did an effective job of converting Saul Rogovin and Joe Dobson into front line hurlers, is going about the business of correcting some of the southpaw's mound flaws at the White Sox' camp at El Centro, Calif. If he succeeds, Byrne may well spark the Chisox to their first American League pennant since 1919.

"I've had daily sessions with Byrne since we began training," Richards said yesterday. "We're trying to pick out something that might help him—maybe stiffen his delivery or slip a slider into his repertoire."

Byrne, obtained from the St. Louis Browns last fall, always has been on the threshold of success but his wildness kept him from reaching the heights. He won 15 games for the New York Yankees in 1949 and 1950 but slipped to 6-11 with St. Louis in 1951. Last season he won seven and dropped 14.

Fain Likes Chisox

While Richards was working with Byrne, Ferris Fain, Chicago's new first baseman, took time out from his first workout to predict the White Sox will "rip apart the pennant monopoly of the Yankees."

"I believe the White Sox have a fine chance to take the pennant," said the American League's 1952 batting champion. "We'll have one of the best defensive teams and our pitching also will be good. As a line-drive hitter Comiskey Park at Chicago is made to order for me and I should do all right there."

Another pitcher, Joe Coleman, was the big news in the Philadelphia A's camp at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Coleman, hampered by a shoulder ailment the past couple of seasons, reported he was in good shape and ready to help Bobby Shantz, Harry Byrd, Alex Kellner and the rest of Jimmy Dykes' mound corps.

"My shoulder seldom bothers me," he said. "And besides I've learned how to pitch."

Coleman won 14 games in 1948 and 13 the following year. He pitched, without much success, for Ottawa and Savannah in 1952.

Outfielder Archie Wilson of the Boston Red Sox became the first serious casualty of the training season when he pulled a tendon in his left leg while sliding. He will be sidelined for ten days.

Another medical case was reported by the Cincinnati Reds at Tampa. First sacker Ted Kluszewski, out for some time last year with an ankle injury, was spiked on the right hand. His injury is not serious however.

Lemon, Lopat Sign

Bob Lemon of Cleveland and New York's Ed Lopat, two of the American League's top hurlers, came to terms yesterday. Lemon, the first of the Tribe's big three to sign, will receive an estimated $45,000 while Lopat inked a provisional $21,000 contract, dependent on whether his ailing left arm comes around this season.

Two Golfers Hold Two-Stroke Lead In Houston Play

Houston, Feb. 27 (AP)—Cary Middlecoff, a veteran collector of golf prizes, and Al Besselink, who has won only one major tournament, held a two-stroke lead today as the $20,000 Houston Open entered its second round.

Middlecoff played both good and bad golf before climaxing yesterday's opening round with a dramatic 40-foot putt on the 18th green to tie the colorful Besselink with a five-under par 67.

This put the Memphis dentist and the curly haired Besselink two strokes ahead of big Jim Ferrier who had finished early with a 69.

The field of 150 players will be cut to 90, plus ties, after today's 18 holes. Sunday's final round over the 7,150-yard, par 72 Memorial Park course will be limited to the 60 low scorers.

Besselink, who plays out of Grossingers, was under or even with par on every hole. He was so pleased with his 33-34-67 he could find no fault with the muddy fairways and soggy greens.

"It was a great round," he told everyone. "But I almost wore out my number two and three irons because the course is so long."

A professional only three years, Besselink won his first major tournament last year at Sioux City.

Four players were grouped at 70, one stroke behind Ferrier, the big San Franciscan. They were Mike Homa, Rye, Bill Nary, Los Angeles, Glenn Teal, East Amhurst and Bill Trombley, Dallas.

Sam Snead settled for a one-under 71. He was tied with seven others.

Jim Turnesa, the PGA champion from Briarcliff, was among eight who finished with even par 72.

A very disturbing characteristic is the tendency to work wide of a mark and thus get out of the proper territory completely. If in actual shooting conditions, a fall has been marked by the dog only, it is impossible for the handler to help the dog and the bird may be lost.

When a dog has had a lot of practice working around a clump of bushes, it is a good idea to toss the dummy right into thick cover. This will get the dog accustomed to heavy going.

To give a dog the line, that is to get him headed in the right direction before sending him to a fall he hasn't seen, it is customary to hold or swing the hand, held straight open, in the proper direction. If the dog is facing across the handler he can be straightened out by pushing his head into line with the back of the hand.

If his body doesn't line up, his front feet can be crowded a bit by the handler sliding his foot over, thus lining him up. If he is facing away from the handler, the rear feet can be crowded until he swings into line. Thus he will get started in the right direction.

Incidentally, when your dog is making deliveries from now on, be sure that they are complete. Make him sit when delivering and hold the bird until you take it from him. If he drops it in front of you, step back and command him to fetch until he delivers to hand.

At this stage you must watch out for "freezing". Make certain that nothing you do encourages the dog to hang on to the bird or be reluctant to "give." Freezing is a greater fault than poor delivery and your attempts to obtain a clean cut performance must not be made at the cost of "freezing."

Dressen-O'Neill Feud in Making; Chuck Predicts Flag for Dodgers

Vero Beach, Fla., Feb. 27 (AP)—The beginning of a beautiful feud between Chuck Dressen of Brooklyn and Steve O'Neill of Philadelphia appeared in the making today.

It began when O'Neill, from his training quarters in Clearwater, told newspapermen the National League Champion Dodgers would not repeat because they could not possibly defeat the second division teams 67 times, as they did last year. Steve also said the Giants and Cardinals, as well as his team, would continue to wallop the Brooklyn Bums.

Won't Happen Again

"Brooklyn will never—never, I say—have a year like last year," he predicted. "They beat the second division teams 67 times out of 87 games. That's the first time in all my years in baseball I ever heard of such a thing. It's impossible for Brooklyn to have another year like that. And if they don't where are they?

"And I'll tell you," Steve continued, "they won't beat the Giants and they won't beat us. They won't beat St. Louis too often, either. No sir, I'm not afraid of them one bit."

While Brooklyn was "moidering" the second divisioners, the Giants took 14 of their 22 from the Dodgers; the Phillies won 12 of 22 with the champs and St. Louis split 22 down the middle.

Dressen, at Vero Beach, came back slugging.

"All I know," countered Dressen, "is that Mike Kelly, my old manager at St. Paul, once told me all you've got to do to win a pennant is to break even with the contenders and wallop the daylights out of those second divisioners. That was John McGraw's system and he won more pennants than any other manager, including O'Neill. Furthermore, O'Neill's club had the same chance against the second division teams as we had. As far as I know, the Phils played them the same number of games. Whose fault is it that they couldn't beat 'em like we did?

"I seem to remember another thing. We played the Yankees right down to the final out in the final game before they beat us in the World Series last fall. And what about the Phillies in 1950 against the same Yankees? They haven't dented the plate yet, have they?

Will Beat Roberts

"And if O'Neill wants to know another thing that won't happen again," Dressen said, "you can tell him that Robin Roberts won't beat us six times again as he did last year. Look at some of those scores he beat us—8-4 and 9-3. We're going to have better pitching this year and we're going to win some of those games we lost to Roberts."

"Here's something else that will happen that hasn't happened," he said. "The Dodgers are going to win two pennants in a row. It's been a long time since a National League pennant winner repeated. That's just what we're going to do in '53. Tell that to O'Neill."

St. Mary's CYO Champions Play Orange Team Sunday

St. Mary's Reds, 85-pound unbeaten Ulster county champions, continued their mastery in CYO play Thursday night with a 28 to 20 victory over St. Peter's at the MJM court.

St. Mary's will meet the Orange county champs Sunday afternoon at the Lincoln Center, Poughkeepsie, in the archdiocesan quarter-finals competition.

In other exhibition contests last night which attracted about 250 persons, St. Mary's Green "B" team scored a 14-10 victory over St. Joseph's while St. Mary's Green "A" quintet registered a 44 to 27 decision over the Immaculate Conception five.

Woods Top Scorer

Johnny Woods, guard for St. Mary's Green "A" team, emerged from the three games as the top scorer of the night with his total of 16 points. Bob Dudek and Al Secreto of Immaculate Conception followed with 12 and 10 points each.

St. Peter's quintet wound up in second place in the county CYO play, dropping only one league game during the season's competition.

Navy Cuts Down On Draft-Agers For Its Reserves

Officials said yesterday the influx of such men in the reserve was having two results the navy did not desire:

1. It was cutting down on the number of regular enlistees the service could take.

2. It was filling up the reserve, now at about 400,000 strength, with "boots" instead of experienced, rated men whom the navy would like to have on call.

The law requires the navy to put a reservist on active duty if he applies for it. He is eligible for release after not more than 24 months, much of which time must be spent in training him. Regular enlistments are for four years.

Viscount Astor Gets Divorce in London

London, Feb. 27 (AP)—Viscount Astor, 45, son of Virginia-born Lady Nancy Astor, was granted a divorce today from Lady Sarah Astor on grounds of adultery.

Viscount Astor was granted costs against correspondent Thomas Baring and giving him custody of his two-year-old son and heir, Hon. William Astor. The suit was not defended.

Lady Astor, whom he married in 1945 while serving as a lieutenant-commander in the navy, is the 33-year-old daughter of Lord Grantley. Judge Tudor Rees, in granting the divorce, said Astor was devoted to his wife and had done all he could to end her friendship with Baring, a man seven years her junior.

Reserves Receiving Promotions

AdvantagesPointed Out by Officers of Reserve Battalion

At the regular meeting of the 854th Engineering Aviation Batalion, Headquarters and Service Company and Company A, Major Carl E. Hedman announced the promotion of a number of enlisted men. At a special ceremony Lieut. Raymond Gilkey awarded each man with a warrant describing the promotion.

Sergeants' stripes were awarded to Cpl. Joe S. Lawson of 27 Murray street and Cpl. William G. Paulding, 55 Wrentham street, both of headquarters and service company. Sgt. Lawson is an administrative clerk and Sgt. Paulding works in supply.

The double stripes of corporal were awarded to Harrison S. Forde, Jr., RD 3, Kingston; Charles B. Pearson, RD 3, Saugerties; Justin W. Pearson, RD 3, Saugerties; Eugene C. Roosa, Stone Ridge, and William B. Sheldon, Jr., RD 3, Kingston, all of Headquarters and Service Company. Company A gave stripes to Joseph L. Duffy, 45 Gill street.

Pvt. (E-2) Donald P. Ely, 17 Broadhead street, New Paltz, a member of Headquarters and Service Company, was promoted to private first class. Pfc. Ely is acting sergeant-major and is assistant to the adjutant.

Work for Promotions

These men, who serve under Capt. Robert Mead of Headquarters and Service Company, and Capt. William Waldele, of Company A are typical of the men in the reserve program, Lieut. Gilkey said, and the promotions are evidence of the opportunities for advancement that are available for men who are willing to work. Boys from 17 to 18½ years who enlist are able to fulfill their service obligations without leaving home, he said, according to the present draft regulations. Ex-service men can fulfill their required reserve obligations, receive time in grade for promotions, add to their years toward retirement, and also cut their reserve obligations by being in an active unit the lieutenant stressed. The battalion, which meets at 22 Ferry street is always ready to enlist both new men and recently discharged veterans who must serve in the reserves. Visitors are invited to see the unit in action.

Speaker Urges All To Take Interest In Community

The need for local interest and committee action in all phases of governmental problems and legislation was stressed by Harold W. McGraw, vice president of the McGraw Publishing company of New York, at a dinner meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday evening.

Business and industrial leaders of Kingston and Saugerties attended the meeting, sponsored by the Empire State Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. Fabian L. Russell of Saugerties, a director of the state chamber, presided.

Must Come from People

"Suggestions for and support of any policy or program of action which will help give us the kind of government we want and need must come from the public spirited citizens of all the communities of our state and nation," McGraw said.

L. Jerome Wolcott and Homer E. Scase of the state group spoke briefly about specific problems they are working on at the request of committees appointed through local chambers. Both also emphasized the need of local leadership in developing the kind of program the businessmen of the city want.

Medical Examiner

Sciences, said in the interview that the cause of death can be determined positively by microscopic examination of tissue.

In his address to the academy, he assailed the "coroner system" of fixing responsibility for violent deaths as a "ridiculous barrier" between competent medical service and law enforcement agencies.

He said a coroner usually sends a lay assistant to make investigations and added, "I have no doubt that people actually are getting away with murder undetected" under this system.

New York city has a chief medical examiner instead of a coroner.

Baby Smuggler?

This is the four-day-old baby who has become the central figure in the Canadian arrest of Jack Shinder and his wife who were about to take the infant to New York with a fraudulent birth certificate. Meanwhile, Canadian officials were turning up other facts in their investigation of a widespread baby-smuggling market. (NEA Telephoto).

Officials Are . . .

"No baby ring is operating in this city."

Nimmo said the only case he is working on is that of the Shinders. He described as "balderdash" a New York report that as many as 1,000 babies had been illegally exported to the United States for adoption.

The Brooklyn couple, now free on $2,000 bail each pending a hearing March 5, told police they paid nothing for the child they had with them except the $63.25 hospital bill owed for its birth.

They told this story:

Mrs. Shinder, who had been told she could not have a child, had tried to adopt a baby in Brooklyn. The application was rejected because Shinder's salary as a store clerk was too low and because their three-room apartment was too small.

A friend in Toronto learned of a 17-year-old girl who was expecting a child. He met the expectant mother and made arrangements to take the baby, on payment of the hospital bill, after its birth.

When the baby was born, the Shinder's both of whom are 29, came to Toronto, got the baby and prepared to return home. The infant had been registered at city hall by a man and a woman.

Toronto lawyer Louis Herman, representing the Shinders, said in the statement the Brooklyn couple has "nothing to hide. They know nothing about a baby market or any ring.

Despite police reports that a prominent Toronto doctor and others were implicated, only the Shinders have been arrested thus far. The baby they were carrying was taken to the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children.

The infant's mother has not been located despite a police search. Officials said she was believed to be an unmarried girl, youthful and rather shabby in appearance, with a full, round face. She was reported to have left a Toronto hospital with the baby Tuesday, four days after the child was born.

U. S. Living Costs

includes prices on more items and covers samplings in more cities. It includes pricings for the first time of such things as television sets, restaurant meals, legal services and banking fees.

The former index, using the five-year period 1935-39 as a base, reached 191.1 last August, declined slightly in September and October, and crept back to the 191.1 peak in November. In December it edged down to 190.7, just a fraction off the record.

Today's index reflects the mid-January living cost situation. The index is always a month late, and is a little later than usual this month because of the changeover to the new index.

The new measurement uses the 1947-49 period as a base—meaning that the price average for those years will be considered as 100—instead of the former 1935-39 average. The new index was known in advance to be in the neighborhood of 114. Comparison between the new and old indexes is possible by arithmetical adjustment.

Contracts between the major automobile producers and the CIO's Auto Workers Union, covering more than a million workers, employ the government index for adjusting worker wage rates according to living cost changes.

However, the union and the auto firms have failed to adjust these "escalator" clauses to the index changeover and it appeared that the adjustment due to be made on March 1 would be delayed indefinitely.

Without a switchover in the government index, the auto workers probably would have taken a cent an hour pay cut, or possibly two cents an hour.

The new index prices about 300 various items, instead of the 225 priced under the former index. It covers about 46 cities, 20 large and the remainder medium and small. Formerly the index covered 34 large cities.

Hunt Still on for Man Who Assaulted Woman

Riverhead, Feb. 27 (AP)—Police continued their search today for clues in the mysterious beating of a 34-year-old woman who said she was clubbed with an empty soda bottle by an intruder in her home early yesterday.

Mrs. Dorothy L. Royce told police she was wakened in the dark by a man who tried to push her face into a pillow and struck her with a bottle. Twenty-four stitches were taken in her head.

The victims screams brought her daughter, Jean, 15, and the assailant fled. Mrs. Royce lives in Riverhead (20 Fifth street) with her daughter and son, Roger Royce, Jr. She is the daughter of Robert W. Duvall, formerly in the Nassau county district attorney's office.

Mrs. Royce is separated from her husband, a wholesale grocery salesman. Police said the husband was not connected in any way with the attack.

torney general in charge of the criminal division, McInerney has said there was such an agreement.

The Federal Grand Jury report last night cleared Patrolman William Brennan after a 10-day investigation of the alleged beating of Jacob Jackson and Samuel Crawford. Jackson said he underwent two brain operations after the alleged beating.

Poultry Meeting Set at Ellenville

Progress made during the past two months will be discussed at the first general meeting of the newly-formed Catskill Poultry Producers Cooperative of Woodridge to be held in the Wayside Inn, Ellenville, Thursday at 8 p. m., according to the president, Leon Goldfarb.

The cooperative has reported listing more than 200,000 birds and sending weekly letters to 650 poultry dealers.

All poultrymen are urged to attend the session to discuss important matters concerning the poultry auction, and to get information on listing birds.

Schenck Quits Post

Hollywood, Feb. 27 (AP)—Joseph M. Schenck has stepped down as executive production head of 20th Century-Fox studio. The pressure of "immense theatre and other interests apart from the company" was given as the reason for his resignation yesterday. He is the major owner of the United Artists Theatre chain and has many other financial interests. Schenck, 70, was born in Russia, came with his parents to America, became a drugstore errand boy, studied pharmacy, operated an amusement park and later acquired theatres. He became a producer of silent film pictures starring the Talmadge sisters, Norma and Constance, and the comedian Buster Keaton.

Navy Cuts Down On Draft-Agers For Its Reserves

Washington, Feb. 27 (AP)—The navy is cutting down sharply on the signing of draft-age, inexperienced men in its reserve.

Officials said yesterday the influx of such men in the reserve was having two results the navy did not desire:

1. It was cutting down on the number of regular enlistees the service could take.

2. It was filling up the reserve, now at about 400,000 strength, with "boots" instead of experienced, rated men whom the navy would like to have on call.

The law requires the navy to put a reservist on active duty if he applies for it. He is eligible for release after not more than 24 months, much of which time must be spent in training him. Regular enlistments are for four years.

Viscount Astor Gets Divorce in London

London, Feb. 27 (AP)—Viscount Astor, 45, son of Virginia-born Lady Nancy Astor, was granted a divorce today from Lady Sarah Astor on grounds of adultery.

Viscount Astor was granted costs against correspondent Thomas Baring and giving him custody of his two-year-old son and heir, Hon. William Astor. The suit was not defended.

Lady Astor, whom he married in 1945 while serving as a lieutenant-commander in the navy, is the 33-year-old daughter of Lord Grantley. Judge Tudor Rees, in granting the divorce, said Astor was devoted to his wife and had done all he could to end her friendship with Baring, a man seven years her junior.

Reserves Receiving Promotions

Advantages Pointed Out by Officers of Reserve Battalion

At the regular meeting of the 854th Engineering Aviation Batalion, Headquarters and Service Company and Company A, Major Carl E. Hedman announced the promotion of a number of enlisted men. At a special ceremony Lieut. Raymond Gilkey awarded each man with a warrant describing the promotion.

Sergeants' stripes were awarded to Cpl. Joe S. Lawson of 27 Murray street and Cpl. William G. Paulding, 55 Wrentham street, both of headquarters and service company. Sgt. Lawson is an administrative clerk and Sgt. Paulding works in supply.

The double stripes of corporal were awarded to Harrison S. Forde, Jr., RD 3, Kingston; Charles B. Pearson, RD 3, Saugerties; Justin W. Pearson, RD 3, Saugerties; Eugene C. Roosa, Stone Ridge, and William B. Sheldon, Jr., RD 3, Kingston, all of Headquarters and Service Company. Company A gave stripes to Joseph L. Duffy, 45 Gill street.

Pvt. (E-2) Donald P. Ely, 17 Broadhead street, New Paltz, a member of Headquarters and Service Company, was promoted to private first class. Pfc. Ely is acting sergeant-major and is assistant to the adjutant.

Work for Promotions

These men, who serve under Capt. Robert Mead of Headquarters and Service Company, and Capt. William Waldele, of Company A are typical of the men in the reserve program, Lieut. Gilkey said, and the promotions are evidence of the opportunities for advancement that are available for men who are willing to work. Boys from 17 to 18½ years who enlist are able to fulfill their service obligations without leaving home, he said, according to the present draft regulations. Ex-service men can fulfill their required reserve obligations, receive time in grade for promotions, add to their years toward retirement, and also cut their reserve obligations by being in an active unit the lieutenant stressed. The battalion, which meets at 22 Ferry street is always ready to enlist both new men and recently discharged veterans who must serve in the reserves. Visitors are invited to see the unit in action.

Speaker Urges All To Take Interest In Community

The need for local interest and committee action in all phases of governmental problems and legislation was stressed by Harold W. McGraw, vice president of the McGraw Publishing company of New York, at a dinner meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday evening.

Business and industrial leaders of Kingston and Saugerties attended the meeting, sponsored by the Empire State Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. Fabian L. Russell of Saugerties, a director of the state chamber, presided.

Must Come from People

"Suggestions for and support of any policy or program of action which will help give us the kind of government we want and need must come from the public spirited citizens of all the communities of our state and nation," McGraw said.

L. Jerome Wolcott and Homer E. Scase of the state group spoke briefly about specific problems they are working on at the request of committees appointed through local chambers. Both also emphasized the need of local leadership in developing the kind of program the businessmen of the city want.

Medical Examiner

Sciences, said in the interview that the cause of death can be determined positively by microscopic examination of tissue.

In his address to the academy, he assailed the "coroner system" of fixing responsibility for violent deaths as a "ridiculous barrier" between competent medical service and law enforcement agencies.

He said a coroner usually sends a lay assistant to make investigations and added, "I have no doubt that people actually are getting away with murder undetected" under this system.

New York city has a chief medical examiner instead of a coroner.

Baby Smuggler?

This is the four-day-old baby who has become the central figure in the Canadian arrest of Jack Shinder and his wife who were about to take the infant to New York with a fraudulent birth certificate. Meanwhile, Canadian officials were turning up other facts in their investigation of a widespread baby-smuggling market. (NEA Telephoto).

Officials Are . . .

this, asserting:

Nimmo said the only case he is working on is that of the Shinders. He described as "balderdash" a New York report that as many as 1,000 babies had been illegally exported to the United States for adoption.

The Brooklyn couple, now free on $2,000 bail each pending a hearing March 5, told police they paid nothing for the child they had with them except the $63.25 hospital bill owed for its birth.

They told this story:

Mrs. Shinder, who had been told she could not have a child, had tried to adopt a baby in Brooklyn. The application was rejected because Shinder's salary as a store clerk was too low and because their three-room apartment was too small.

A friend in Toronto learned of a 17-year-old girl who was expecting a child. He met the expectant mother and made arrangements to take the baby, on payment of the hospital bill, after its birth.

When the baby was born, the Shinder's both of whom are 29, came to Toronto, got the baby and prepared to return home. The infant had been registered at city hall by a man and a woman.

Toronto lawyer Louis Herman, representing the Shinders, said in the statement the Brooklyn couple has "nothing to hide. They know nothing about a baby market or any ring.

Despite police reports that a prominent Toronto doctor and others were implicated, only the Shinders have been arrested thus far. The baby they were carrying was taken to the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children.

The infant's mother has not been located despite a police search. Officials said she was believed to be an unmarried girl, youthful and rather shabby in appearance, with a full, round face. She was reported to have left a Toronto hospital with the baby Tuesday, four days after the child was born.

Action Taken to Keep Ships Out of Red China

Washington, Feb. 27 (AP) — The Mutual Security Administration (MSA) says it has acted to keep ships from getting into the Red China trade after MSA pays their way to the Far East.

An MSA official said the ships affected by this squeeze on Communist bloc commerce would be principally those flying western European flags and hauling MSA-financed fertilizer and other cargo from European ports to Formosa. Such a trip, he estimated, is worth $90,000 to $100,000 in transportation fees.

An MSA rule announced yesterday requires ships to agree not to touch at Red Chinese, Siberian or Russian satellite ports in Europe for 60 days after discharging cargo at the Nationalist Chinese island.

Arthur G. Syran, director of transportation for MSA, said the rule had already been applied to two vessels. He explained the 60-day period was adopted because that was long enough to make it unprofitable for a ship to wait out the specified time.

Enforcement is provided by holding back 25 per cent of the transportation fee for MSA cargo until it is evident the ship is not going into the Red trade.

Until the new rule was adopted, ships which had discharged MSA cargo in Formosa could then go to Hong Kong or some Communist-controlled Pacific port and take on cargo for delivery to a European satellite destination.

Money Disappears

Indianapolis (AP) — A man was beckoned inside where two gypsies told his fortune and blessed his money. Later he complained to police that $26 of his money disappeared during the blessing. The two women soon learned their own fortune wasn't too rosy when they were arrested on a grand larceny charge.

Testifies

Daniel J. Boorstin, University of Chicago professor, testifies Feb. 26, before the House Un-American Activities Committee. Boorstin was named in testimony, Feb. 25, as a member of a Red cell at Harvard University in the late 30's. The committee is making a public search for subversives in the ranks of college educators.

Unknown Submarine Reported in West

San Francisco, Feb. 27 (AP)—A fisherman's report of seeing an unknown submarine surface off the northern California coast at dusk Tuesday touched off a widespread navy, coast guard and air force hunt, the navy disclosed today.

A navy spokesman said unknown sub contacts have been reported about once a month over the past year and added:

"There is no reason to assume that foreign submarines are not operating off our coasts. If they are beyond the three-mile limit, there is nothing we can do about it, under international law."

The latest contact was reported by Lee Master, a lumberman of Casper, who said he saw the submarine rise to the surface in the Pacific off Agate Beach, 130 miles northwest of here, while he was fishing.

Flame-Throwing Rail Cars

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya (AP) — Some Malayan railway cars will in the future spout flame on any Communist guerillas trying to disrupt rail communications in Malaya. The Communications Security Committee announced it has arranged for 42 new armored rail cars to be built in Britain fitted with turrets mounting a Browning gun, wireless and a "Wasp" flamethrower. The committee said the first six such rail cars are expected in Malaya next month.
